2023 marked as busy year for forest fires in West Virginia

BY KATHERINE SKELDON WVMetroNews.com

CHARLESTON — The start of 2024 will bring to a close the fall outdoor burning restrictions in West Virginia bringing to a close a busy year when more than 300 forest fires were recorded across the state.

West Virginia State Forester feremy Jones told MetroNews starting Jan. 1 people are permitted to start controlled fires during daylight hours.

"Our burning restrictions go away for the months of January and February, and then they come back in for our spring fire burning season which would be March 1," Jones said.

Jones said he cautions the public that while they are allowed to burn during the day in January and February, people should make sure that burning does not occur on a very dry day with a lot of sun and wind. He said it's better to wait for a day when conditions are more moist.

Jones said it was a busy fall for the state Division of Forestry. He said the busiest portion came during the first few weeks of November when the division, along with local fire departments, had to extinguish over 80 forest fires, most of which occurred in the southern coalfields region of the state.

He said a major blaze took place in the New River Gorge National Park and Preserve during that time — called the Steep Mountain Fire — which occurred in addition to what they were already having to respond to.

"When the Park Service had that fire, the one that got all of the press, we were actually managing about 42 fires throughout the state that were essentially just as big, or what we would consider

Bridges, exits and 'panhandling': 2023 in Monongalia County

BY BEN CONLEY

BConley@DominionPost.com

The Monongalia County Commission maintains the lowest tax rate in West Virginia and lowered its budget by roughly 7% in 2023.

That, in and of itself, would constitute a year end story in an when government has seemingly embraced its role as everyone's favorite extraction industry.

But there's more.

"I honestly believe this was one of the best years ever for our community and for Monongalia County," Monongalia County Commission President Tom Bloom said.

Bloom points to the start of production at Mountaintop Beverage, which promises to be one of the state's largest industrial players, as well as progress on county-wide broadband, an unprecedented three-way agreement to upgrade water and sewer services out toward Mylan Park, expansion of its industrial kitchen in the Mon County Center to include a food preservation component, and so on.

"Looking back, it's 99% positive, and these are things that will affect everyone for years to come," Bloom said. "We're always looking forward. I'm excited to see what we can do in 2024."

Counties, cities begin to receive direct opioid settlement payments

BY JEFF JENKINS

WVMetroNews.com

CHARLESTON — Cities and counties across West Virginia are beginning to receive their first direct payments from opioid settlement funds.

The Kanawha County Commission received a $2.9 million settlement check Thursday. Commission President Kent Carper said it's the first time in history local governments are receiving a direct share in these types of

"Unlike the tobacco settlement and many other settlements, which go to the state, this goes directly to counties and cities,' Carper said.

The cities and counties filed their own lawsuits against drug makers and distributors in connection with the opioid epidemic. The cases settled along with state cases. A memorandum of understanding allows for direct payments along with allocations from the West Virginia First Foundation.

Carper said his county and others have discretion on how the direct payments can be spent. Kanawha County could reimburse itself for what it spent on jail bills related to the opioid epidemic, enforcement needs along with mitigation of caused by damages widespread drug use. The commission will discuss the possibilities at its next meeting scheduled for Jan. 11.

Carper said the important thing is counties can make their own decisions.

"A lot of times these funds go directly to the state and we have to go get in line and ask for our money back. Here, this portion of the settlement, albeit fairly small compared to what the state gets, goes directly to counties. There's a reason for this," Carper said.

According to a news release from the commission, "As part of the West Virginia First Memorandum of Understanding, a quarter of the settlement dollars $53.32 million for the Chaplin Hill Gateway Project, which includes bridge improvements, a new interchange and pedestrian and bicycle connections between I-79 Exit 155 and Mylan Park.

The funds come in addition to $66 million already promised by the state to reconfigure the primary vehicular connection from I-79 and Morgantown, Star Granville and WVU.

The overall project has components. multiple including replacing I-79 bridges over Chaplin Hill Road, reconstructing the interchange to a divergent diamond with a westbound flyover, and a pedestrian and bicycle connection between the Star City bridge and the regional rail-to-trail network.

The funding comes from the U.S. Department of Transportation Mega Grant Program — an infrastructure funding program in the Infrastructure Investment and to the Jobs Act — Monongalia County Commission.

In addition to ...

Everyone, local leadership included, was caught off guard in July when the state announced it was not only going to push forward with construction of a new Harmony Grove interchange off I-79, also but build a $70 million bridge across the Monongahela River to the Morgantown Industrial Park in the meantime.

That's two projects, currently estimated at a total of about $100 million, to provide interstate access to the MIP.

Gov. Jim Justice and the West Virginia Division of Highways have said construction of the bridge will begin in spring 2024 with the new interchange beginning as early as 2025.

During the November meeting of the Morgan-Monongalia Planning Metropolitan Organization Policy Board, three Transportation Improvement Program amendments were approved.

All three pertained to the Harmony Grove project, including: $3.7 million in engineering work to be done in the current fiscal year; $550,000 in right-of-way acquisition in FY 2024-'25; and $25 million in construction in FY 2025-'26. However, Department of Transportation Secretary Jimmy Wriston stoked lingering doubts earlier this month when he expressed his doubts to state lawmakers.

"We have always committed to [Harmony Grove]. We know that it's feasible. ... I would bet you a dollar against a doughnut that the minute we start that other bridge project, the federal agencies may take a harder look at the interchange," he said.

Bloom called on Wriston to clarify his comments during the Dec. 13 commission meeting but has yet to get a response.

Don't say panhandling

As evidenced above, the county commission spent a lot of time talking about roads in 2023.

It also spent a lot of time talking about people standing in roads.

After about six months working with local municipalities, and a number of lawyers, the commission voted unanimously on Oct. 25 to adopt the Ordinance Regulating Pedestrian and Vehicle Safety in what was likely the county's most controversial issue of 2023.

What began as an ordinance tailored to stop panhandling was rebranded mid-stream in an effort to skirt the free speech pitfalls that often doom such legislation.

The ordinance includes a number of prohibitions for both pedestrians within a right-ofway and vehicle passengers that would make it illegal activity for pedestrians to stand, sit or physically remain within a roadway for any reason apart from crossing the road. It also makes it illegal for both pedestrians and vehicle passengers to interact and pass or exchange items.

While the commissioners insist the law is solely about safety on local roads, opponents have said it unfairly targets the

The day the ordinance was adopted civil rights groups including the ACLU of West Virginia and Mountain State Justice penned a joint letter stating, in part:

"You can slap a horn on a pony and call it a unicorn, but a unicorn this does not make. The Commission's ordinance is equally fantastical, premised on the idea that sweeping bans on speech make a community safer or more inclusive. We tried to tell them; now we'll see them in court."

Bloom said the county has yet to be notified of any legal challenges.

"That could still happen," he said, "But the law is working, and I think the community sees working."

Netanyahu says Gaza war on Hamas will go on for 'many more months,' thanks U.S for new weapons sales

Associated Press

DEIR AL-BALAH, Gaza Strip — Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said Saturday that Israel's war on Hamas in Gaza will continue for "many more months," pushing back against persistent international cease-fire calls after mounting civilian deaths, hunger and mass displacement in the besieged enclave.

Netanyahu thanked the Biden administration for its continued backing, including approval for a new emergency weapons sale, the second this month, and prevention of a U.N. Security Council resolution seeking an immediate cease-fire. Israel argues that ending the war now would mean victory for Hamas, a stance shared by the Biden administration, which at the same time urged Israel to do more to avoid harm to Palestinian civilians.

In new fighting, Israeli warplanes struck the urban refugee camps of Nuseirat and Bureij in the center of the territory Saturday as ground forces pushed deeper into the southern city of Khan Younis.

The Health Ministry in Gaza said Saturday that more than 21,600 Palestinians have been killed in Israel's unprecedented air and ground offensive since the deadly Oct. 7 Hamas attack on southern Israel. The ministry, which does not distinguish between the deaths of civilians and combatants, said 165 Palestinians were killed over the past 24 hours. It has said about 70% of those killed have been women children.

The number of Israeli soldiers killed in Gaza combat rose to 170, after the military announced two more deaths Saturday.

The war has displaced some 85% of Gaza's 2.3 million residents, sending swells of people seeking shelter in Israelidesignated safe areas that the military has nevertheless bombed. Palestinians are left with a sense that nowhere is safe in the tiny enclave.

offensive this week, tens of thousands more Palestinians streamed into the already crowded city of Rafah at the southernmost end of Gaza.

Thousands of tents and makeshift shacks have sprung up on Rafah's outskirts next to U.N. warehouses. Displaced people arrived in Rafah on foot or on trucks and carts piled high with mattresses. Those who did not find space in overwhelmed shelters pitched tents on roadsides.

"We don't have water. We don't have enough food," Nour Daher, a displaced woman, said Saturday from the sprawling tent camp. "The kids wake up in the morning wanting to eat, wanting to drink. It took us one hour to find water for them. We couldn't bring them flour. Even when we wanted to take them to toilets, it took us one hour to walk."

In the Nuseirat camp, resident Mustafa Abu Wawee said a strike hit the home of one of his relatives, killing two people.

Shelling kills 21 in Russian city of Belgorod following Moscow's aerial attacks across Ukraine

Associated Press

Shelling in the center of the Russian border city of Belgorod Saturday killed 21 people, including three children, local officials reported.

A further 110 people were wounded in the strike, said regional governor Vyacheslav Gladkov, making it one of the deadliest attacks on Russian soil since the start of Moscow's invasion of Ukraine 22 months ago.

Russian authorities accused Kyiv of carrying out the attack, which took place the day after an 18-hour aerial bombardment across Ukraine killed at least 41 civilians.

Images of Belgorod on social media showed burning cars and plumes of black smoke rising among damaged buildings as air raid sirens sounded. One strike hit close to a public ice rink in the very heart of the city, which lies 25 miles north of the Ukrainian border and 415 miles south of Moscow. While previous attacks have hit the city, they have rarely taken place in daylight and have claimed fewer lives.

Russia's Defense Ministry said it identified the ammunition used in the strike as Czech-made Vampire rockets and Olkha missiles fitted with clustermunition warneads. It provided no additional information, and The Associated Press was unable to verify its claims.

"This crime will not go unpunished," the ministry said in a statement on social media.

The Kremlin said Russian President Vladimir Putin had been briefed on the situation, and that the country's health minister, ordered to join a delegation of medical personnel and rescue workers traveling to Belgorod from Moscow. Russian diplomats also called for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council in connection with the strike. Speaking to Russia's state news agency, Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova said Britain and the United States were guilty of encouraging Kyiv to carry out what she described as a "terrorist attack." She also placed blame on EU countries who had supplied Ukraine with weapons.

"Silence in response to the unbridled barbarity of Ukraine's Nazis and their puppeteers and accomplices from 'civilized democracies' will be akin to complicity in their bloody deeds," the ministry said in a statement.

Earlier Saturday, Moscow officials reported shooting 32 Ukrainian drones over the country's Moscow, Bryansk, Oryol, and Kursk

They also reported that cross-border shelling had killed two other people in Russia. A man died and four other people were wounded when a missile struck a private home in the Belgorod region late Friday evening and a 9-year-old was killed in a separate incident in the Bryansk region.

Cities across western Russia have come under regular attack from drones since May, with Russian officials blaming Kyiv. Ukrainian officials never acknowledge responsibility for attacks on Russian territory or the Crimean Peninsula.

acres or bigger," he said. Jones said since July 1, the forestry division and fire crews battled a total of 322 fires that had burned approximately 32,317 acres, with both of those numbers, particularly the acreage, resting well above the typical yearly average. He said it was a particularly challenging season, because, the fires seemed to happen all at once, and the warmer than average temperatures that a portion of the fall experienced didn't help alongside the shedding of the leaves.

"Once our leaf canopy falls off you know it doesn't take long for an 80-degree day and sunshine to dry those out, and when they dry out they burn fairly easily unfortunately," he said.

Jones said a little over a third of those fires were caused by debris burning that could have been prevented by using burning safety strips, not leaving the fire unattended, as well as following the other guidelines provided by the Division of Forestry. He said it all turned out well in the end despite the series of challenges the increased number of blazes brought. Division "The Forestry did a tremendous job, along with our fire departments," Jones said. "We were thankful we didn't have any major injuries or anything of that nature this fall."

He implores people to follow those guidelines during times of outdoor burning restrictions and to use common sense when starting controlled fires.

Jones said if people have any questions about the restrictions and guidelines, or when it's safe to burn, to the Division of Forestry's office headquarters in Charleston at 304-558-2788, or call any of the regional offices.

It was also a tragic year for the Division of Forestry with the spring death of Fayette County Forester Cody Mullens. He died while battling a blaze in the Armstrong Creek area. Investigators determined the fire was intentionally set and a man has been charged.

Mexico and Venezuela restart repatriation flights

Associated Press

MEXICO CITY — Mexand Venezuela announced Saturday that they have restarted repatriation flights of Venezuelans migrants in Mexico, the latest move by countries in the region to take on a flood of people traveling north to the United States.

The move comes as authorities say at least 10,000 migrants a day have been arriving at the U.S.-Mexico border, many of them asylum seekers. It also comes as a migrant caravan of thousands of people from across the $region - largely\ Venezue$ lans — has trekked through southern Mexico this week.

The repatriation flights are part of an agreement made between regional leaders during a summit in Mexico in October that aimed to seek solutions for migration levels that show few signs of slowing down.

Mexico's Ministry of Foreign Relations said the two countries began repa-Friday and a second on meet "strengthen their cooperation on migration issues." The statement also said the two countries plan to implement social and work programs for those repatriated to Venezuela.

"Mexico and Venezuela reiterate their commitment to address the structural causes that fuel irregular migration in the region, and to achieve a humanitarian management of such flows," the statement read.

Mexico's government said it previously carried out a similar repatriation flight last Jan. 20 with 110 people.

As migration has soared in recent years, the U.S. government has pressured Latin American nations to control the movement of migrants north, but many transit countries have struggled to deal with the quantities

This week, U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken and other Biden administration officials triations with a flight on were in Mexico City to with Mexican

"He asked — Joe Biden asked to speak with me he was worried about the situation on the border because of the unprecedented number migrants arriving at the border," Mexico's leader said. "He called me, saying we had to look for a solution together."

López Obrador has said he is willing to help, but in exchange he wants the U.S. to send more development aid to migrants' home countries and to reduce or eliminate sanctions against Cuba Venezuela.

Mexico's president and other critics of American foreign policy have cited the sanctions on Cuba and Venezuela as one of the root causes of high migration.

on these shores.

His mother died young, and the dutiful son dropped out of school for a time, to help care for his younger siblings.

Then, he dropped back in — after the grieving eased and after the household had become more financially stable, with the help of the extra paychecks.

By then, Zack was across the state line in West Virginia.

He was studying industrial arts and playing football at New River State College (now WVU Tech) in Montgomery when he got he got his draft notice.

Matchbook movie deal

Zack mustered into the "Big Red One," the famed 1st Infantry Army division that fought across Europe and slogged headlong onto Omaha Beach, smack in the middle of the ocean chop and bullets of D-Day.

One of his platoon mates was Sam Fuller, who was just as coiled as Zack was mellow — and who would eventually become a Hollywood screenwriter and filmmaker.

Fuller had already been at work in the movie town, in fact, as a rewrite man on B-movie scripts when the news crackled across his car radio of the attack at Pearl Harbor.

He quickly enlisted. According to lore, Fuller was either in the field or in a foxhole with Zack — he never could quite remember if it was France or Germany or Africa or Sicily, or if it was in 1943 or 1944, even – when he made a pitch for a movie.

With Zack's celluloid blessing, he wanted to give a big-screen treatment of that helmet and that bullet and that little boy.

"If we make it out of this thing, Sarge," Fuller said. Fuller, amazingly, even got it in writing. Zack scrawled his intellectual consent, in pencil, on the back of a matchbook cover.

Then, just like that, it was 1951.

Casting call

Zack by then was teaching mechanical drawing and coaching football at Morgantown High when a communication from a buddy, on Twentieth Century Fox letterhead and dated May 16 of that year, landed in his mailbox.

Its author was Fuller. "Dear 'Sgt.' Zack," it began.

The movie director had tracked him down and was telling him about that movie and its title, "The Steel Helmet," that was shooting in Los Angeles.

"Anyway, am happy you're alive," Fuller "When are you wrote. coming out Hollywood?"

Soon, as it turned out.

Same account, different war

He and Martha Jane Rowe had just married, and Fuller paid for their honeymoon trip to sunny California.

It was a trip to the soundstage, where that movie they kibbitzed on, was in production, with the then-ongoing Korean War as the backdrop.

Said film told the story of a protagonist simply named, "Sgt. Zack," who survived being shot in close quarters — with a that bounced bullet around his helmet, and back out again. A soldier, befriended by little boy on the battlefield.

"Jenny did some amazing sleuthing," Zack's daughter, E.J. Mahoney, said last week from her home in St. Petersburg, Fla.

She was referring to Secreto, who Jenny teaches English at the school on Wilson Avenue and knows a compelling narrative when one comes Tony Zack and Gene Evans, a then-unknown character actor who was starring as "Sgt. Zack," in the film.

A detective story, too ...

Zack, who left the area in 1964 for a teaching job in Ohio, and died in 1999, was before everyone's time at MHS, Secreto said.

"I never knew he existed," she said.

"Then, when I found out, well, you know me - I had to learn everything I could about him. I was obsessed."

Secreto went on the Google and ancestry.com trail. She found an online obituary that may have been him (it was).

Then, she found another item that may have referred to his daughter (it did).

"That got me to Florida," the Morgantown High teacher said. "So I wrote a letter to E.J."

And Mahoney, who also had a career in education like her dad — she became a school principal at the age of 29 on her way to earning a doctorate — wrote back.

"I was so impressed by Jenny's effort," Zack's daughter said.

"And so touched that she would want to recognize my dad in Morgantown."

Thank the Morgantown High School Foundation, Secreto said.

An outside company that publishes promotional materials for the foundation was compiling blurbs from past graduates on favorite memories and favorite teachers of MHS.

One came from an alum living in Texas after a career in the military.

He wrote about "Coach Zack," and how people didn't know about what he did in the war until the movie came out — which the teacher and coach likely wouldn't have mentioned either, had it not been for an account carried in an earlier incarnation of this newspaper.

It got out the way these things always get out.

Someone, probably in the family who knew about the trip and its reason, called the newsroom after Tony and Martha got back.

A short story in the paper talked about the movie and featured a photograph of the newlyweds posing with Fuller and Gene Evans, a thenunknown character actor who was starring as "Sgt. Zack," in the film.

Reel life — real life

Evans was a big guy, with a height and build like an NFL linebacker.

He was also a World War II veteran, who came home with a Purple Heart and Bronze Star.

Fuller was drawn by Evans' Everyman vibe.

The actor was legitimately authentic, the director and screenwriter said which is why he wouldn't buckle, even as the studio was pushing for John Wayne in the lead role.

Like all of Fuller's other war films to follow, "The Steel Helmet," with a pardon to reviewer-speak, was gritty and unflinching.

It touched upon the basic training-infused, conditioned hatred of the person in the other uniform.

And, the prevailing race relations in America at the time in the late 1940s and early 1950s, when it was a "Whites Only/Coloreds Only" world at home.

There was also the tested telling of young people shipping out to war: to fight, bleed and die for causes they may not fully understand.

The movie is still available for the viewing on YouTube.

Mahoney has seen it more than once — but she can't always watch it, she said. That's because her father, who spoke sparingly about the war, still said the battlefield tension the movie depicts was pretty much accurate. "The Sgt. Zack on the screen was different than the Sgt. Zack in my house,"

"Dad wasn't coarse or prejudiced at all, like Gene Evans played him. But Sam Fuller gave a real sense of what he still through."

Reporting for (domestic) duty She appreciates that it was a former student who put Secreto onto her dad's life and times. Mahoney was 12 when the family moved from Morgantown to Ohio, in the Parma area of Cleveland, where Zack continued on professionally, as an industrial arts educator who also coached the varsity on the side.

She loved her time Morgantown, she said. She remembers living in a big house in the South Park area, above MHS.

She remembers riding on the float with cheerleaders during Homecoming parades and accompanying her dad to school, watching him in his classroom, with his students.

everyone's He was favorite teacher and coach in Parma, too, his daughter

"When your kids come up to you, after they've been out of school, and they're actually glad to see you, well, that's your legacy as a teacher," she said.

"That happened all the time with Dad."

Her favorite moments with her dad, however, came when her daughter, Meghan, now an educator herself, was a little girl.

That's when a certain doting grandfather would happily enlist for babysitting duty.

Zack, who was relaxed, friendly and approachable, still carried himself with a quiet kind of dignity which is why some of the things Mahoney witnessed were priceless, she said.

She'd come home from work, and there the teacher, coach and combat veteran would be.

Reading the sports section of the Cleveland Plain Dealer with curlers in his hair, as it turned out, because little Meghan decided she wanted to play makeup artist that day.

Google settles $5B privacy lawsuit

Google has agreed to settle a $5 billion privacy lawsuit alleging it spied on people who used the "incognito" mode in its Chrome browser — along with similar "private" modes in other browsers — to track their internet use. The lawsuit filed in 2020 says Google misled users into believing that it wouldn't track their internet activities while incognito. The settlement was reached Thursday. It must still be approved by a federal judge. Terms weren't disclosed, but the suit originally sought $5 billion on behalf of users. Plaintiffs' lawyers said they expect to present the court with a final settlement agreement by Feb. 24. Google did not immediately respond to a request for comment

British actor Tom Wilkinson dies at 75

LONDON — Tom Wilkinson, the Oscarnominated British actor known for his roles in "The Full Monty," "Michael Clayton" and "The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel," has died at age 75, according to his family. A statement shared by his agent on behalf of the family said Wilkinson died suddenly at home on Saturday. It didn't provide further details. Wilkinson was nominated for a best actor Academy Award for 2001's family drama "In The Bedroom" and in the best supporting actor for his role in the "Michael Clayton," a 2007 film which starred George Clooney. He is remembered by many in Britain and beyond for playing former steel mill foreman Gerald Cooper in the 1997 comedy "The Full Monty."

AMSTERDAM — Climate activists have blocked part of the main highway around Amsterdam for hours near the former headquarters of ING bank. They're protesting the bank's financing of fossil fuels. Amsterdam Municipality says that traffic authorities closed part of the road early Saturday afternoon and diverted traffic "to prevent a lifethreatening situation." It's the latest road blockade organized by the Dutch branch of Extinction Rebellion. Earlier this year, the activist organization repeatedly blocked a highway leading into The Hague. Late in the afternoon police moved in to end the protest, peacefully detaining dozens of activists who ignored orders to leave the road.

Floods kills 21 people in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG — A South African police spokesperson says flash floods killed 21 people in the small town of Ladysmith in KwaZulu-Natal province. The floods hit the town on Christmas Day, destroying about 1400 homes, with the death toll expected to rise as an unconfirmed number of people are still missing, he said. Search and rescue teams have been scouring rivers to recover bodies with the operation expected to continue throughout the weekend. KwaZulu-Nata province has witnessed devastating floods lately. In June, heavy rainfall triggered deluges that killed seven people and in April last year, devastating floods killed more than 440 people.

Earthquake shakes Indonesia

BANDA ACEH, Indonesia — A strong and shallow undersea earthquake has shaken part of Indonesia's Aceh province, but there were no immediate reports of serious damage or casualties. The U.S. Geological Survey said Saturday the magnitude 5.9 earthquake was centered 225 miles east of Sinabang, a coastal town in Aceh province at a depth of 6.2 miles. Indonesia's Meteorology, Climatology and Geophysical Agency said there was no danger of a tsunami but warned of possible aftershocks. The agency put a preliminary magnitude at 6.3. In 2004, an extremely powerful Indian Ocean quake set off a tsunami that killed more than 230,000 people in a dozen countries.

Revelers set to pack into Times Square for annual New Year's Eve ball drop

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The confetti has been tested for airiness. The giant numerals — 2024 — are in place. And the luminous bedazzled 2,688 crystal triangles, is fixed to the pole from which it make its 60-second descent at 11:59 p.m.

With throngs of revelers set to usher in the new year under the bright lights of Times Square, officials and organizers say they are prepared to welcome the crowds and ensure their safety.

At a security briefing on Friday, New York City Mayor Eric Adams said there were "no specific threats" to the annual New Year's Eve bash, which is expected to draw tens of thousands of people to the heart of midtown Manhattan on Sunday attendance is expected to return to pre-COVID levels, even as foot traffic around Times Square remains down slightly since the pandemic.

The celebrity-filled event will include live performances from Flo Rida, Megan Thee Stallion, LL Cool Jm as well as televised appearances from Cardi B and others.

Organizers said in-person militants in Gaza, police said they would expand the security perimeter around the party, creating a "buffer zone" that will allow them to head off potential demonstrations.

Pro-Palestinian marches have disrupted recent events in New York, including the Macy's

Thanksgiving Day Parade and the ceremonial lighting of the Rockefeller Christmas Tree,

"We will be out here with our canines, on horseback, our helicopters, our boats,' Adams said. Officials will also monitor protests with drones, he said. "But as we saw last year, after having no specific threats we get a threat."

During last year's New Year's Eve party, a machete-wielding man attacked three police officers a few blocks from Times Square.

Tom Harris, the president of the Times Square Alliance, said there would always be security concerns, but praised the police department's measures to ensure participant safety. Backpacks, duffel bags and alcohol are banned inside the security perimeter, and all attendees must pass through police checkpoints.

His advice for those planning to attend the countdown: "Come early."

Maui's economy needs tourists. Can they visit without compounding wildfire trauma?

Associated Press

LAHAINA, Hawaii — The restaurant where Katie Austin was a server burned in the wildfire that devastated Hawaii's historic town of Lahaina this summer.

Two months later, as travelers began to trickle back to nearby beach resorts, she went to work at a different eatery. But she soon quit, worn down by constant questions from diners: Was she affected by the fire? Did she know anyone who died?

"You're at work for eight hours and every 15 minutes vou have a new stranger ask you about the most traumatic day of your life," Austin said. "It was soulsucking."

Hawaii's governor and mayor invited tourists back to the west side of Maui months after the Aug. 8 fire killed at least 100 people and destroyed more than buildings. They 2.000wanted the economic boost tourists would bring, particularly heading into the year-end holidays.

But some residents are struggling with the return of an industry requiring workers to be attentive and hospitable even though they are trying to care for themselves after losing their loved ones, friends, homes and community.

Maui is a large island. Many parts, like the ritzy resorts in Wailea, 30 miles south of Lahaina — where the first season of the HBO hit "The White Lotus" was filmed — are eagerly welcoming travelers and their dollars.

Things are more complicated in west Maui. Lahaina is still a mess of charred rubble. Efforts to clean up toxic debris are painstakingly slow. It's offlimits to everyone except residents.

Tensions are peaking over the lack of long-term, affordable housing for wildfire evacuees, many of whom work in tourism. Dozens have been camping out in protest around the clock on a popular tourist beach at Kaanapali, a few miles north of Lahaina. week, hundreds marched between two large hotels waving signs reading, "We need housing now!" and "Short-term rentals gotta go!"

Hotels at Kaanapali are still housing about 6,000 fire evacuees unable to find long-term shelter in Maui's tight and expensive housing market. But some have started to bring back tourists, and owners of timeshare condos have returned. At a shopping mall, visitors stroll past shops and dine at at openair oceanfront restaurants.

Austin took a job at a restaurant in Kaanapali after the fire, but quit after five weeks. It was a strain to serve mai tais to people staying in a hotel or vacation rental while her friends were leaving the island because they lacked housing, she said.

Servers and many others in the tourism industry often work for tips, which puts them in a difficult position when a customer prods them with questions they don't want to answer. Even after Austin's restaurant posted a sign asking customers to respect employees' privacy, the queries continued.

Oakland, Calif., officer killed while answering burglary call; shooter being sought, police say

Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. — An Oakland, Calif., police officer was shot and killed Friday while answering a report of a burglary at a dispensary, marijuana authorities said.

Tuan Le, 36, was one of several who responded to a report of a burglary in progress at the cannabis business near Jack London Square at about 4:30 a.m., about 3 1/2 hours after an burglary reported at the same business, authorities said.

The arriving uniformed and plainclothes officers saw several people leaving business and one opened fire several times, hitting the officer, who was in plainclothes and driving an unmarked car, interim Police Chief Darren Allison said at a news conference.

Other officers took the wounded officer to a hospital, where he was pronounced dead about four hours after the shooting.

"Officer Le was surrounded by his wife, mother, and members of his OPD family when he died," a statement from the city said.

No officers returned fire, the chief said.

No arrests were immediately made, but Allison said investigators were following up on a lot of "actionable" evidence. He didn't provide details.

"The dangers and demands of this profession are real, and come with significant sacrifice," the chief said. "Sadly, today, one of our officers paid the ultimate sacrifice."

Le was born in Saigon in Vietnam and later moved to Oakland, becoming a naturalized citizen in 2001, the city's statement said.

He graduated from the police academy in 2020 and for the past two years served as community resource officer in West Oakland, the statement said.

"He will be remembered for his kindness, his smile, and the positive change he brought to the lives of those around him," the statement said. "He is a true hero who dedicated his life to making our community safer."

Mayor Sheng Thao called the killing a senseless act of violence and said she was devastated by the officer's death.

"I know the entire Oakland community feels the profound impact of this loss," she said in a statement.

"I am proud of the officers who responded this morning and carried their brother to the hospital on their shoulders," Barry Donelan, president of the Oakland Police Officers' Association, said in a statement. "Their actions personified what it means to be an Oakland police officer. As we mourn, rest assured that we are also determined to bring this cop killer to justice.'

It was the 54th death of an Oakland officer in the line of duty, coming amid a robbery-driven rise in violent crime. Robberies where a gun was used increased 37% this year over the same period last year, according to police department figures cited by San the Francisco Chronicle.

Wilbur "Wil" J. Smith, a cherished son, husband, brother, and uncle. passed away peacefully on Dec. 22, 2023, at J.W. Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgan-

Smith town, at the age of 87.

Born on Dec. 11, 1936, in Fayetteville, Wil was the son of Walter and Lizzie M. Smith. Wil lived a life rich in experiences, touching the hearts of those around him. His passing is preceded by his parents; his brothers, Dietz, Edgar, Paul, and Garrel; and his sisters, Ethelda, Zelda, and Wil is survived by his devoted wife, Dr. Sarah Xie of Morgantown, who stood by his side through the iourney of life. Newlywed quickly discovers man's overt possessiveness

DEAR ABBY: I have been married three years. The man I married is not the person I fell in love with. After our wedding, he demanded that I take his last name. I am proud of my last name, and I didn't want to drop it. (If only that were the sole problem.) I am no longer allowed to go out to lunch with my friends or even to see my family unless it's on one particular day. Abby, my family means a lot to me and my friends do, too.

I don't like being controlled. I have tried talking to him about it, but he blames everything on me. He is old-fashioned, so all my time "needs" to be here at home. I have children outside of this marriage, and my husband insists he comes first, no matter what. I do not feel that wav. My children always come before anyone.

How do I fix this? If I can't resolve it, it means a divorce. I don't want that, but my children and my family matter, and I don't believe a couple must spend every second together. Please give me your advice. — CONTROLLED IN TENNESSEE

JEANNE PHILLIPS

DEAR CON-TROLLED: Your husband has made clear that things are his way or the highway. He isn't going to mellow. Please take the hint, contact a lawyer and set yourself free. The alternative is to continue being treated like a hostage.

DEAR READERS: As I reflect back on this year, I would like to wish you a happy, healthy and successful 2024. Did 2023 fly by for you as quickly as it did for me? I will join you tonight in "toasting" a new year that, I pray, will be less stressful for all of us. If you are celebrating tonight, please take measures to protect not only your own health, but also the safety of others. Happy New Year, everyone!

State Parks to welcome hikers for First Day Hikes this New Year's Day

MetroNews staff

CHARLESTON — More than half a dozen state parks across West Virginia plan to offer a First Day Hike on New Year's Day.

The free guided hikes, which are held annually on Jan. 1, are part of a nationwide effort to encourage more people to get outdoors.

Officials at seven state parks will host First Day Hikes. It's part of a nationwide initiative led by America's State Parks with hundreds of free, guided hikes in all 50 states.

The following state parks will offer hikes on Monday:

■ Blackwater Falls State Park — 10:30 a.m. begins at the Blackwater Falls lodge. Naturalist Paulita Cousin will lead the two-mile hike.

Leashed dogs are welcome.

■ Bluestone State Park — Naturalist and educator Jonathan Lipscomb will lead the hike, which will last about an hour.

■ Cacapon State Park — 10 a.m. begins at the Nature Center will be led by naturalists Valerie Chaney and Allen Miller.

■ Cass Scenic Railroad State Park begins at the Cass Company Store for a stroll along the Greenbrier River Trail led by Park Naturalist Jaimie Shearer and volunteers.

■ Cedar Creek State Park offers a half-mile hike doable for all ages and skill levels.

■ Kanawha State Forest has multiple hikes planned beginning at 1 p.m..

■ Tygart Lake State Park will have a hike on the School Bus Loop Trail at 10 a.m. beginning at the campground. The hike is about 2 miles round-trip and led by naturalist Jacob Jackson.

Hikers will get an opportunity to meet with naturalists, take a hike on a winter day through West Virgina's state parks and learn about the environment. It's also a chance for people to try a new hobby like hiking and to explore the state's natural beauty.

Warm clothes and sturdy hiking shoes are needed. Water and snacks are recommended for longer hikes, and items such as binoculars are welcome.

All hikers who participate will receive a West Virginia State Park First Day Hike patch.

New year, new drinking outlook?

DEC. 31 IS A GREAT TIME TO DISCUSS IMPAIRED DRIVING.

After all, during the New Year holiday, drunk driving fatalities generally spike, sometimes only rivaling the Fourth of July as the most dangerous holiday in this regard.

That's why the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) has designated December as National Impaired Driving Prevention Month.

And then Jan. 1 is not only National Hangover Day but also the beginning of Dry January, an observance that has been gaining steam as individuals forgo drinking for a month to give their bodies a break and their minds the ability to see what changes can take place when not imbibing alcohol.

Of course, alcohol and impaired driving isn't just a holiday issue. According to the National Highway Safety Traffic Administration, about 37 people die every day in the United States in drunk-driving crashes ... one person every 39 minutes.

In 2021, a total of 13,384 people died in alcoholimpaired driving traffic deaths, a 14% increase from 2020.

But few holidays are as

alcohol-oriented as New Year's Eve. After all, for many, it's customary to ring in the new year with a glass of champagne, and it's not always the first and only drink of the evening for some.

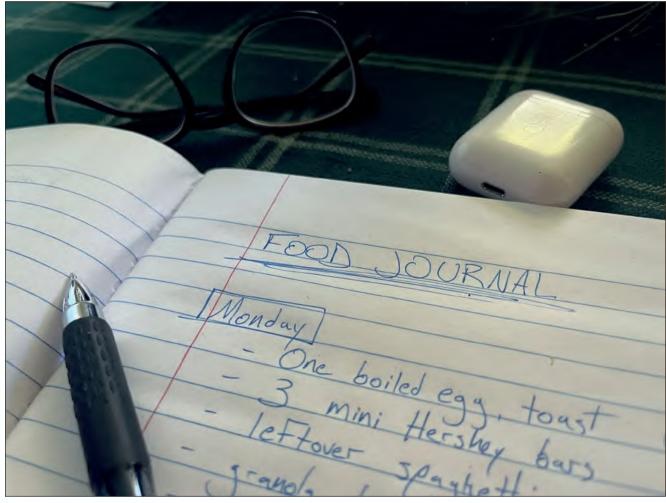

If you are parents of teenagers, not only do you need to think about your celebration, but you'll also want to go over the dangers of underage alcohol and substance misuse with them.

SAMHSA offers a campaign called "Talk. They Hear You," that includes information on a mobile app to help parents with these conversations. You can download the app by typing "Talk. They Hear You" in the space where you get your apps.

Offering to drive your child to and from whatever event they might be attending can also help them avoid bowing to peer pressure and accepting a ride from someone who is

Adopting healthy habits

A WVU expert suggests rather than trying a fad diet for your New Year's resolution hoping for lasting weight loss, consider adopting healthy habits instead like making a food journal which can have a larger impact on long-term health.

WVU expert recommends small, consistent dietary changes for an effective New Year's resolution

BY KAITLYN EICHELBERGER

KEichelberger@DominionPost.com

In a recent survey conducted by Forbes Health, losing weight and improving diet rank among the top five New Year's resolutions for 2024.

However, nutrition experts at WVU warn against making drastic changes or following diet trends in order to achieve these goals.

Forbes Health found the typical New Year resolution is maintained for just over three months, and Harvard Health Publishing reports that many popular diets are only temporarily effective, with benefits diminishing after six to 12 months.

Gina Wood, a specialist and coordinator for the WVU Extension Family Nutrition Program's Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program, suggests the answer might be simpler than popular diet regimens suggest.

One issue with fad diets is the significant lifestyle changes they demand. Some diets suggest eliminating entire food groups or dramatically decreasing calorie intake as weight loss "hacks," often resulting in monotonous, uninspired meals that require time and energy to plan and carry out. This approach not only proves ineffective due to the human body's reliance on a varied diet to fulfill nutritional needs, but also demands too many changes, too quickly.

"Diets typically ask people to make drastic changes. They are either asking you to cut out an entire food group or drastically reduce your calorie intake. The chances of that working are pretty slim," said Wood. "Every food group has its role. The more of those things you cut out, the less nutritious your diet is going to be. It is difficult to maintain health without a full array of nutritious foods. Variety is the key."

Wood recommends assessing your baseline and understanding your current habits before attempting any changes. Keeping a food or physical activity journal reflecting your daily habits can help identify small, manageable changes to expand on later.

"Pick something small. If you notice you are only eating vegetables twice a week, start by adding another serving once or twice a week," said Wood. "Do something small that is realistic, because once you have one small success, you're going to be able to build on that."

Both Harvard Health Publishing and Forbes Health highlight consistency and realistic, proactive goals as the key to maintaining New Year's resolutions and achieving results. If a healthier diet is part of your 2024 resolutions, Wood recommends MyPlate.gov as a base resource for nutritional information and recipes.

"People who are successful in terms of weight loss and improving lifestyle, it's not the drastic changes — it's the small changes you are able to maintain over time. Consistency leads to success," said Wood. "It's about progress, not perfection."

Film adaptation of musical 'Color Purple' sings

I DIDN'T REALIZE "THE COLOR Purple" had been adapted into a musical until word of the film adaptation of that movie was announced. However, the popularity of Alice Walker's novel and the 1985 Stephen Spielberg movie seem to make it somewhat inevitable. Still, I was looking forward to another trip with Celie and Shug in Blitz Bazawule's most recent adaptation of "The Color Purple."

Young Celie (Phylicia Pearl Mpasi) and Nettie (Halle Bailey) are sisters living with their father, Alfonso (Deon Cole), who has twice impregnated Celie. She is giving up her second child when Mister (Colman Domingo) comes asking to marry Nettie. Alfonso refuses Nettie but says he can marry Celie – promising that even though she's ugly, she can work hard. Mister agrees and takes Celie to his home, where Nettie soon joins when their father tries to rape her as well. When Nettie refuses Mister's advances, he throws her out and promises the sisters will never see one another again. Now an adult, Celie (Fantasia Barrino) endures regular beatings from Mister, with her only relief coming from her friendship with Sofia (Danielle Brooks) and her fascination with the electric Shug Avery (Taraji P. Henson).

As one can see from the synopsis, this is a difficult film to watch, though the musical elements soften the edges of the tragedy while still allowing Celie's pain and resilience to shine through. And they do shine through. From the early moments when Celie hands her son over to her father, not knowing where he will be taken or if he is even alive, the story shows a woman who clings to hope in the most impossible

U.S. military space plane blasts off on another secretive mission

Associated Press

The U.S. military's X-37B space plane blasted off Thursday on another secretive mission that's expected to last at least a couple of years.

Like previous missions, the reusable plane resembling a mini space shuttle carried classified experiments. There's no one on board.

The space plane took off aboard SpaceX's Falcon Heavy rocket from NASA's Kennedy Space Center at night, more than two weeks late because of technical issues.

It marked the seventh flight of an X-37B, which has logged more than 10 years in orbit since its debut in 2010.

The last flight, the longest one yet, lasted 2 1/2 years before ending on a runway at Kennedy a year ago.

Space Force officials would not say how long this orbital test vehicle would remain aloft or what's on board other than a NASA experiment to gauge the effects of radiation on materials.

Built by Boeing, the X-37B resembles NASA's retired space shuttles. But they're just onefourth the size at 29 feet long. No astronauts are needed: the X-37B has an autonomous landing system.

They take off vertically like rockets but land horizontally like planes, and are designed to orbit between 150 miles and 500 miles high. There are two X-37Bs based in a former shuttle hangar at Kennedy.

Powerful Pacific swell brings threat of more dangerous surf to California

Associated Press

VENTURA, Calif. -Bulldozers built giant sand berms Friday to protect beachfront homes in of California's coastal cities hit hard this week by extraordinary waves generated by powerful swells from Pacific storms.

Dozens ofpeople watched construction of the emergency barriers in the Pierpont area of the city of Ventura, where a rogue wave on smacked Thursday spectators and vehicles as it overran the beach and flowed into a neighborhood.

"We have had water down the lane once before but never like this," said Karris Kutivan, a 9-year resident of the scenic shoreline city about 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

"What it has taught me is I want to live by the beach, not on the beach," Kutivan said.

Eight people were taken to hospitals for treatment of injuries after the Pierpont incident, according to Ventura County authorities, who closed beaches, piers and harbors through Dec. 31.

Similar waves overran heaches elsewhere Thursday on the California coast, flooding parking lots, streets and triggering evacuation warnings for low-lying areas.

The ocean was less violent Friday but the National Weather Service warned that another round of extremely dangerous surf conditions would return Saturday.

The Los Angeles-area weather office wrote that powerful cyclones over northern Pacific waters were sending 12- to 17-foot swells, creating "tremendous wave energy across coastal waters.'

At some points along California, breaking waves were predicted to reach 25 feet. Astronomical high tides were adding to a significant risk of more coastal flooding, forecasters said.

"Overall, this expected to be an exceptional high-surf coastal flooding event that has not occurred in many years," the weather service wrote. "Take caution and heed the direction of local authorities and lifeguards. Never ever turn your back to the water as damaging and life-threatening sneaker waves are likely to occur."

In Hawaii, which also was slammed by the huge swells this week, the weather service downgraded a high surf warning to an advisory Friday. Large breaking waves of 18 to 22 feet along some north-facing shores and strong currents will make swimming dangerous, the weather service

West Virginia's elk herd grows slowly and remains overall very young

BY CHRIS LAWRENCE

WVMetroNews.com

CHARLESTON — West Virginia's elk herd stands at around 100-110 in the coalfields of southern West Virginia.

The approximate figure was offered up to an interim committee of the Legislature during a December meeting in Charleston by the Division of Natural Resources Elk Project Leader Randy Kelley.

Kelley gave an update on the health of the herd and the progress made since reintroduction began in West Virginia in 2015. Kelley noted the state of Virginia started its elk reintroduction just a couple of years before West Virginia. But the Virginia program has benefited from Kentucky's elk program. Due to the proximity and terrain, a large number of Kentucky elk have roamed into the Old Dominion much more frequently than they've crossed the Tug Fork River.

"We were getting a few elk passively moving in from Kentucky, but nothing like what is moving into Virginia. Mostly it's our southern coalfield counties, which border Kentucky, although there was one that was noticed to be in as far as Boone County," Kelley said address his lawmakers.

DNR Director Brett McMillion told lawmakers there are explorations being made to import more elk from other locations to the Mountain States. But movement of any cervid species has become a complicated process due to the fear of chronic wasting disease as well as other diseases.

Kelley told lawmakers West Virginia's herd was still trying to recover from the impact of a loss of a large number of animals rounded up in Arizona and sent to West Virginia.

"We were under a 120-day holding rule and had to keep them penned up. No matter how much food we gave them or how gently we handled them, they became extremely stressed," said.

Crews captured 60 elk in Arizona to transfer to West Virginia. Eight died in captivity while being held in Arizona for the first 30 days. They were then trucked to West Virginia where they had to be kept in a holding facility on the Tomblin Wildlife Management area for the duration of the 120day quarantine. Efforts to get a waiver from the USDA for the quarantine were unsuccessful and six more of the Arizona elk died before they were released onto the landscape in West Virginia.

Kelley said it didn't end

"We ended up releasing 46 animals, but because of the added stress another 33% were lost to a parasite called brain worm. When your body is stressed, you're more susceptible to parasites or disease. After they recovered from that, it's calmed down and we are starting to recover from that loss," he said.

A typical loss to brain worm is about 4% to 10% in a common year. Kelley said one of the issues now is the age structure of the state's elk herd skews rather young.

"They're not consistent breeders until they are 3 and they only have one calf a year. Where we had 15, 20, or 30 cows to breed in the past, now we're up to about 40 so hopefully it will start growing a little faster," he said.

Some lawmakers inquired about what level the herd would need to reach before a limited hunt could be allowed. Delegate Amy Summers noted Virginia had just completed its first elk hunt with tags to harvest a small number of bulls and the population in the range of 200-250.

Although Kelley was reluctant to put any number on the herd that would trigger conversations for a controlled hunt, he agreed 200-250 was at least where West Virginia's herd needs to be before a first hunting opportunity.

"We're still at a really young age structure, even our bulls are young. We don't want to do it too early because you can affect reproduction, so we want to be cautious, but I'd say that 200 to 250 range," he said.

Kelley also told lawmakers since the situation with the Arizona elk, they've learned a lot more about handling the animals and using better techniques and equipment to minimize stress on them.

"I think we learned a lot on our first transfer. More recently working with the USDA things have been a little more cordial, so hopefully we wouldn't be forced in that again, but if we that's the case we've done things to improve our methodology,' of circumstances. The film is stacked with spectacular performances. Domingo is having an impressive year with both this and "Rustin," showing his impressive range. Barrino gives a beautiful performance as Celie, inviting us into her story with a reserved strength. Brooks electrifies the screen whenever she is on, and Henson is an absolute delight as Shug.

The music and the dancing bring a whole different element to the story. Relying heavily on the music of Black Americans, particularly gospel and blues, it ties this film to the Black experience in a way that was missing in the 1985 version. From the opening up-tempo Black church song to the quiet reflection in the final piece, we immerse ourselves in the Black experience.

In one scene, Celie advises her son to beat his wife to get her to stay in line. That pain and humiliation is all that she has known, and she passes it on to another woman. The author, Alice Walker, has given us a beautiful story about remembering people's humanity. Still, she has engaged in anti-Semitic and transphobic language, proving that you can see some flaws in the system while upholding others. The greatest gift that this film gives us is the reminder that it is never too late to make right what we made wrong.

Of course, not everyone will choose to do that. If you do plan to go out and if drinking is on the agenda, make sure to have a designated driver or be prepared to call an Uber to get you home.

After the potential for the indulgences of the holiday season, Dry January might sound like a really good idea to some individuals.

Even for those who don't have a drinking problem, or who don't think they do, a month without alcohol gives them the opportunity to see how not drinking makes them feel.

They might find pounds coming off or sleep patterns improving.

Those who plan to avoid alcohol in January might consider doing some planning to help set themselves up for success.

George F. Koob, the director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, suggests identifying why you drink and then thinking of ways you could accomplish the same goal without alcohol. Maybe meet friends to go for a hike or to play games instead of to drink at a party.

Also, let your friends and family know you plan to abstain from alcohol during Dry January so they can support you, and perhaps even join you, he added.

Civil rights leader removed from movie theater for using his own chair

Associated Press

A civil rights leader was escorted by police out of a North Carolina movie theater after he insisted on using his own chair for medical reasons, prompting an apology from the nation's largest movie theater chain.

The incident occurred Tuesday in Greenville during a showing of "The Color Purple." The Rev. William Barber II said he needs the chair because he suffers from ankylosing spondylitis, a disabling bone disease.

Barber, 60, leads a nonprofit called Repairers of the Breach, which focuses on issues including voter suppression and poverty. He also co-chairs the national Poor People's Campaign, which is modeled after an initiative launched in 1968 by the late Rev. Martin Luther King

During an hourlong news conference on Friday, Barber spoke in support of people with disabilities and the need for businesses provide the accommodations required under the Americans with Disabilities Act.

"I know that if I cannot sit in my chair in a theater in Greenville, North Carolina that there are thousands of other people who will be excluded from public spaces in this nation,' Barber said.

Barber said managers at the AMC theater asked an armed security guard and local police officers to remove him after he stood firm on using the chair. Barber said he agreed to be escorted out after officers said they'd have to close down the theater and arrest

Barber said he left his 90year-old mother behind with an assistant to watch the film. Video of the incident shows Barber talking to an officer before walking out of the theater.

"This is not about me personally," he said. "Though it happened to me personally, this is about what systemic changes, policy changes (and) training needs to be done to ensure this happens to no one."

Greenville police said in a statement that a caller from the theater said a customer was arguing with employees and the theater wanted him removed. After a brief conversation with a responding police officer, "Barber agreed to leave the theater voluntarily," police said. No charges were filed.

AMC apologized in a written statement, saying it welcomes and works hard to accommodate guests with disabilities, WRAL reported.

"We are also reviewing our policies with our theater teams to help ensure situations like this do not occur again," the statement

Barber said he'll meet next week with the chairman of AMC Entertainment Holdings, Adam Aron, after Aron reached out to him. Barber said he is "hopeful it will lead to just and good things for those with disabilities.'

Police searching for Colorado mother suspected of killing her 2 children, wounding third

DENVER — Police were still searching Friday for a Colorado woman suspected of killing her two young children and wounding a third after police initially responded to a report of a burglary in their home.

Kimberlee Singler, 35, was cooperative at first with police investigating the Dec. 19 deaths but then went missing as the probe, which eventually determined the burglary report was unfounded, continued, according to Colorado Springs Police Department spokesperson Ira Cronin.

Police were able to present evidence to obtain a warrant for Singler's arrest on Tuesday but police believe she had already disappeared by then, Cronin under surveillance, last seen on Saturday in Colorado Springs, he said.

"In the initial stages of the investigation, we were treating her as a victim of a burglary," Cronin said.

The children's deaths came amid an ongoing legal battle between Singler and her ex-husband over parenting time and other issues, according to court filings. Court hearings had been scheduled for next month.

Rex Harris, a lawyer for the ex-husband, did not immediately return a telephone call or email.

Police said thev answered a 911 call reporting a burglary at an apart-12:30 a.m. on Dec. 19 and found the bodies of Singler's 9-year-old daughter

Singler ana 11-year-old daughter were also injured and taken to hospitals for treatment.

Cronin said he could not release details about how the children or Singler were injured. The 11-yearold girl was hospitalized for a few days and then released. She is recovering well physically in Colorado Springs and is not with her mother, Cronin said. Singler's injuries were minor, he said.

He declined to say whether Singler herself had reported the burglary.

The FBI is assisting in the search for Singler at the request of police, Vikki Migoya, a spokesperson for the agency's Denver office, said Thursday.

For transgender youth in crisis, hospitals sometimes compound the trauma

Associated Press

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Four days of waiting in UNC Hospitals' psychiatric emergency room Callum Bradford desperate for an answer to one key question.

With knots in his stomach, the transgender teen asked: "Will I be placed in a girls' unit?"

The answer provoked one of the worst anxiety attacks Callum had ever experienced. Sobbing into the hospital phone, he informed his parents, who fought to reverse the decision they warned would cause their son greater harm.

Although they ceeded in blocking the transfer, the family had few options when a second overdose landed Callum back in UNC's emergency room a few months later. When the 17-year-old learned he was again scheduled to be sent to a girls' inpatient ward, he told doctors the urge to hurt becoming himself was uncontrollable. exchange is documented in hospital records given by family to Associated Press.

medical procedures for minors have often said parents are not acting in their children's best interest when they seek such treatment.

Major medical associations say the treatments are safe and warn of grave mental health consequences for children forced to wait to access puberty-blocking drugs, hormones and, in rare cases, surgeries.

Youth and young adults ages 10-24 account for about 15% of all suicides, and research shows LGBTQ+ high school students have higher rates of attempted suicide than their peers, according to the Centers for Control Disease and Prevention.

North Carolina lacks uniform hospital treatment standards and runs low on money and staff with proper training to treat transgender kids.

Sending a transgender child to a unit that does not align with their gender identity should be out of the question, said Dr. Jack Turban, director of the gender psychiatry program at the University of California, San Francisco, and a researcher of quality care barriers for trans youth in inpatient facilities.

"If you don't validate the trans identity from day one, their mental health's going to get worse," Turban said.

When North Carolina lawmakers allocated $835 million to shore up mental health infrastructure earlier this year, none of the money was allocated to meet the specific needs of trans patients.

There has been a great sense of newness with sports in 2023.

There are new coaches for the West Virginia men's and women's basketball teams, new expectations for the football team and new heights reached by individuals and collectives alike.

Bob Huggins' pair of controvercies over the offseason expadited his departure from the university and opened the door for Josh Eilert to step in as interim head coach. Dawn Plitzuweit's abrupt exit from the women's team led to the hiring of Mark Kellogg.

Along with new faces, there were also new achievements.

The Mountaineer football team smashed its preseason last-place prediction to finish with the best season in Neal Brown's tenure, raising expectations for even better things to come in Morgantown distance runner Irene Riggs became the first-ever Gatorade National Player of the Year winner from West Virginia.

The Morgantown boys' basketball team won its second straight state title and the Morgantown girls' soccer team completed its own back-to-back feat a few months later.

WVU baseball's JJ Wetherholt led the nation in batting average in what was the Mountaineers' best season ever on the diamond which included its first Big 12 title.

Finally, the WVU men's soccer team capped its best season in history with the program's firstever trip to the College Cup.

WVU second baseman J.J. Wetherholt had one of the best individual seasons ever in program history. He became the first WVU player to lead the country in hitting, finishing with a .449 batting average. He also had 16 home runs, drove in 60 runs and added 36 stolen bases.

WHAT ELSE HAPPENED?

- Dawn Plitzuweit resigned as the WVU women's basketball coach after one season with the program to become the head coach at Minnesota. On April 3, WVU announces it has hired Mark Kellogg to replace her.
- University High wrestler Brock Kehler won the state championship at 215 pounds and finished a perfect 54-0 on the season. It was Kehler's second state title.
- For the fifth consecutive season, the University High boys' cross-country and Morgantown High girls' cross-country teams won the state championships. MHS had its top five all finish in the first 12, while UHS had its five all place in the top 13.
- For the first time since 2011, the Backyard Brawl football rivalry returned to Milan Puskar Stadium. WVU beat Pitt 17-6 with running back C.J. Donaldson rushing for 102 yards and a touchdown.
- The WVU baseball team won 40 games for just the second time in school history and won a share of its first-ever Big 12 title, along with Texas and Oklahoma State. The Mountaineers reached the school's highest national ranking at No. 7 during the season.
- The Morgantown High girls' track team finished tied for the Class AAA state title with Jefferson. Both schools finished with 111 points.
- The West Virginia Black Bears, behind manager David Carpenter, won the 2023 MLB Draft League championship with a 9-4 victory against Trenton. It was the Black Bears' second consecutive championship.
- Morgantown High boys' basketball guard Sharron Young signed a Division I scholarship to play at Akron next season.
- WVU men's basketball forward Akok Akok collapsed to the floor during an exhibition game and was rushed to the hospital. He returned to action five weeks later in a game against Pitt.
- The Clay-Battelle boys' basketball team advanced to the Class A state semifinals for the third time in school history. The Cee-Bees finished with a 20-7 record.

Fighting Mountaineers fall to Ohio State in 78-75 overtime loss

BY JUSTIN JACKSON

JJackson@DominionPost.com

CLEVELAND — You never would have known Roddy Gayle Jr. just had the game of his life Saturday.

Cool, calm and collected, Gayle took a hectic moment Saturday and turned it into a highlight reel, leading Ohio State to a 78-75 overtime victory against West Virginia inside Rocket Mortgage FieldHouse.

"It's tough to rattle him," Ohio State head coach Chris Holtmann said. "He's always been that way. He's got a disposition about him to where sometimes you go, 'Roddy, hey, let's go.' But, it's just how he is as a player."

Gayle, a sophomore, had 23 of his 32 points in the second half and overtime, as the Buckeyes (11-2) survived a major scare from the Mountaineers (5-8).

Mountaineers (5-8).

Gayle's performance was just one way to tell this story, in a game that had more key moments than any mystery novel.

There was the fact WVU kept battling back and got the game into overtime only after Patrick Suemnick became an unsung hero.

His lay-up with 31 seconds left in regulation tied the game at 65 and came off a pick-and-roll with Noah Farrakhan, as Farrakhan drew the defense to him and simply flipped the ball back to Sumenick for the score.

"We had trouble with their backup center the whole night," Holtmann said.

In the overtime, WVU guard RaeQuan Battle's 3-point attempt with 1:04 left came up well short.

The reason? WVU head coach Josh Eilert believed Battle was fouled and Eilert rushed out near midcourt to let his feeling known.

"I was three feet away from the play," Eilert said after the game. "It was pretty clear what happened." Had Battle, who finished with 24 points on 9 of 19 shooting, been given three free-throw attempts, he may have been able to cut into Ohio State's 78-73 lead at the time.

Instead, Eilert was whistled for a technical, but nothing came of that, because Gayle missed both free throws — his only setback of the game — and then Battle intercepted a tipped pass and turned it into a dunk.

The final 45 seconds of overtime was just missed opportunities for WVU.

Gayle missed a jump shot, but the offensive rebound went to teammate Evan Mahaffey.

Mahaffey was fouled, but missed both free throws.

Still trailing 78-75, WVU guard Kerr Kriisa was foued with eight seconds left, but he missed the front end of the one-and-one free throw and Ohio State ran out the clock after getting the rebound.

Barr, Luzader lead Clay-Battelle to inaugural Santa Series championship

BY MICHAEL GRIFFITH Sports@DominionPost.com

BLACKSVILLE — The 2023 Santa Series basketball tournament concluded on Saturday at Clay-High School in Blacksville with the Cee-Bees and Greenbrier West Cavaliers battling for the tournament championship.

The Cee-Bees (6-2) used a dominant frontcourt display from duo Colby Barr and Preston Luzader, who combined for 59 points, to race past the Cavaliers (2-3) by a final score of 79-50.

Barr led the way with 31 points, while Luzader added 28. The two shot 24 for 38 from the field and 11 for 15 from the freethrow line.

C-B started hot out of the gate with a layup from the opening tip-off in the first five seconds of the game and didn't look back from there. A 12-0 run to start the game set the tone early on as GW struggled to make a shot, starting the contest 0 for 8 from the field.

"We didn't start very well (Friday), (Saturday) that was one of our goals; come in and try to get ahead early and see what we could do," CB head coach Josh Kisner said. "We knew Greenbrier West wouldn't give up, they're a tough team and in the top ten. Our boys just put on a show today."

Luzader made his presence known in the paint on both ends as well, grabbing nearly every rebound and finishing the second chances on the offensive side.

West Virginia opens Big 12 play with dominant win over Kansas

The No. 25-ranked WVU women's basketball team (12-0, 1-0 Big 12) defeated Kansas, 85-60, inside Allen Fieldhouse in Lawrence on Saturday afternoon. The win is the first for head coach Mark Kellogg in the Big 12 Conference.

The Mountaineers controlled play in the game, outrebounding the Jayhawks 34-28. and made use of a 44-36 advantage in the paint. Redshirt junior guard Kyah Watson spearheaded the effort on the glass with 11 rebounds as fifth-year senior and junior Tirzah Moore each collected five.

Sophomore guard Jordan Harrison, playing in her first Big 12 conference game, recorded a WVU career-high 21 points. Watson finished with 11 points to collect her second double-double this season. Junior guard JJ Quinerly finished with 13 points as Moore chipped in with 10.

54.2% (32-of-59) from the floor, including 50% (9-of-18) from 3-point range. It marks the third and fifth time this season WVU has shot over 50% from beyond the arc and the field, respectively. The Jayhawks shot 23-of-53 (24.4%) from the floor and 15-of-13 (38.5%) from beyond the arc.

WVU also led in points from turnovers (21-14) and second-chance points (14-6). The Mountaineers forced Kansas into 21 turnovers, marking the 11th time this season they have reached the mark.

Senior forward Kylee Blacksten and Watson each knocked down 3's over the opening five minutes, but Kansas attacked the paint, jumping out to a 9-6 lead at the first media. WVU chipped away, trailing 12-11 with just over a minute to play, when a Jayla Hemingway three pushed WVU into the lead at 14-12. WVU never trailed in the contest again.

maintained its two-point lead over the first three minutes of the second quarter. A Quinerly three and five straight points for Harrison pushed the WVU lead to eight, at 28-20, approaching the five-minute mark. The Jayhawks pulled back within five points before WVU outscored KU 10-2 over the final four minutes to a 38-25 lead at halftime.

Harrison paced all scorers in the half, dropping all 11 of her points during the second frame. knocked down seven 3's over the 20 minutes and limited the Jayhawks to a 0of-3 mark from beyond the West Virginia extended its lead out of the break to 16 points at 6:40 off a Blacksten layup. The Jayhawks outscored WVU 8-2 into the media timeout, to trail the Mountaineers 52-42. The Mountaineers held KU scoreless, 0-of-4 from the field, over the final three minutes of the quarter. The effort gave WVU a 62-44 lead entering the final frame.

The fourth quarter was all WVU, as the Mountaineers extended their lead to as many as 26 points. The win is the 13th straight for WVU and marks the fourth-best start in program history.

With the win, West Virginia moves to 18-7 all-time against Kansas, including 9-4 in games played in Lawrence.

Also of note, the 25-point victory is the largest margin that WVU has used to beat the Jayhawks. West Virginia returns home for their first of two straight conference matchups of the season at the WVU Coliseum. The Mountaineers' play against Cincinnati on Wednesday, Jan. 3. Tipoff is set for 7 p.m. ET, and the game will be broadcast on Big12Now on ESPN+ and the Mountaineer Sports Network, including 100.9 WZST-FM.

Some thoughts on feeding birds

DAVE SAMUEL

Two of my good friends have given me their thoughts on feeding birds in your back yard. Dr. Edwin Michael was a fellow wildlife professor with me at WVU for many years. He's been feeding birds for over 50 vears and his ideas are based on lots of history in our area. Kevin Armstrong is a fellow Cheat Lake Rotarian, and loves to photograph birds that come to his various feeders. Here are some of their thoughts. Thousands of people feed birds, and when the pandemic hit, feeding birds really went up. People were stuck in their homes, and they wanted to see out the windows. Today, the cost of seed has skyrocketed and feeding birds has gone down a bit. Both Dr. Michael and Kevin Armstrong note that their hobby is now not for everyone because of cost. Even so, lots of people feed birds. One book author on this topic states that we don't feed birds to save the birds, we do it to feed out soul. We do it for us.

I agree with that book. Feeding birds is good for us because it gets people into learning about nature. We sit at our windows with bird book in hand and identify every species that come. The more the better. Then we watch bird behaviors at the feeders. Great for adults and even better for kids.

There can be benefits for the birds too. For example, migrating birds come to feeders to replenish their energy as they move north in the spring, and south in the fall.

Dr. Michael has ni different feeders around his yard. Most have black oil sunflower seeds and he believes that these seeds bring in the best variety of birds. He prefers these seeds to striped sunflower seeds and he prefers these seeds over the bird seed mixes, though cheaper, because the mixes contain cracked corn that bring in house sparrows and starlings. If you like seeing these alien species (they came from Europe) then the mixed seeds will work for you at less cost. In fact Kevin Armstrong buys seed mixes from Wild Birds Unlimited and says that the fruit and nuts and other things in those seed mixes are quality foods.

Dr. Michael states that the best change he has made "in 50 years of feeding birds", is to feed meal worms. "I don't know why it took so long for me to make that change," he noted. Kevin also feeds birds meal worms. The Carolina wrens and tufted titmice love them. But he also feeds meal worms for the bluebirds that nest in boxes he has nearby. He notes that he spoils the bluebirds during the nesting season by feeding them live meal worms, but most of the time he feeds dry meal worms. He notes that the meal worms are $20 for a 1.25 pound bag. Dr. Michael states that he orders 20 pound bags of meal worms on line. However he does recommend that whenever possible, buy your products locally to help local businesses.

In the winter Kevin switches to safflower seeds because the starlings can't open those. He also puts out Nyjer (thistle) for finches in winter. I used to use that but found the thistle invaded my flower beds. But finches and other species come to it.

Then there is suet cakes that are available locally. These attract a variety of birds including pileated woodpeckers, chickadees, nuthatches and all the local woodpecker species.

Dr. Michael also mentions providing water. The plastic bases for flower pots work great for water. He uses an electric heater in the water in winter to prevent freezing.

Clean your feeders often to prevent disease. Kevin feeds year-round as does Dr. Michael. Kevin lives near the Botanic Garden and in the summer. the first indication that bears have visited his feeders, he takes his all down for a few weeks. Otherwise, the bears become a problem, both for you and for them. Bears that become used to humans putting out food, can become habituated and then get into trouble. Not good as problem bears have to be removed.

As my two friends noted, feeding birds is a fun hobby, so set up a feeder or two in your back yard and enjoy watching birds.

DR. SAMUEL is a retired wildlife professor from West Virginia University. His outdoor columns have appeared, and continue to appear, in Bowhunter magazine and the Whitetail Journal. If you have questions or comments on wildlife and conservation issues, email him at drdave4@comcast.net

Venerable coaches lead Steelers and Seahawks into key Week 17 matchup

Associated Press

SEATTLE — On the list of the NFL's winningest coaches, Pete Carroll and Mike Tomlin are linked by proximity and success.

Carroll ranks 13th alltime with 180 wins between the regular season and the playoffs. Right behind him is Tomlin, with 179 victo-

Despite being among the league's longest-tenured coaches, the two have met only four times previously heading into today's matchup between the Steelers and the Seahawks.

Even though their teams have rarely crossed paths, there's a healthy respect between the two leaders.

"He's a really good Carroll said. "They've had the good fortune of having him for years; 16 years and never had a losing season. That's a pretty good mark, that's hard to get that done. I have the ultimate respect for

This fifth matchup between the coaches is arguably the most important to date because of what is at stake. Both teams have playoff hopes, although the path for Seattle is clearer.

The Seahawks (8-7) need wins over the Steelers and at Arizona to make the playoffs for the 11th time in Carroll's 14 seasons.

The route for Pittsburgh (8-7) to the playoffs is more complicated. But after snapping a three-game losing streak last week against Cincinnati, the Steelers at least have a possible path to navigate. Beating the Seahawks and knocking off Baltimore in Week 18 would put the Steelers in a good position. But even a loss to Seattle wouldn't entirely eliminate Pittsburgh, depending on what happens elsewhere in the

A win would also ensure vet another season finishing at or above .500 for Tom-

This season has featured striking similarities for both teams — some unexplainable losses, a bunch of close wins and an untimely losing streak. The Seahawks lost four straight before salvaging their playoff chances with consecutive 20-17 wins Philadelphia and Tennessee the past two weeks.

After starting 7-4, the Steelers lost three straight before reviving their playoff hopes with last week's 34-11 thumping of the Ben-

"The bottom line, it's

late December, the road is getting extremely narrow and it's a big football game," Tomlin said.

LATE DRAMATICS

The Seahawks have not made their victories easy on fans. Each of Seattle's last four wins has been decided by a score either in the final minute of the fourth quarter or in overtime. The Seahawks beat Cleveland in Week 8 on a touchdown from Jaxon Smith-Njigba with 38 seconds left. In Week 10, Seattle needed overtime to beat Washington 29-26.

The last two weeks have been the most dramatic. Drew Lock's 29-yard touchdown pass to Smith-Njigba with 28 seconds left beat Philadelphia, and last week it was Geno Smith throwing a 5-yard TD to Colby Parkinson with 57 seconds remaining.

MORE MASON

Longtime backup quarterback Mason Rudolph will likely get a second straight start after throwing for 290 yards and a pair of long touchdowns to George Pickens last week.

While starter Kenny surgically repaired right ankle felt good enough for him to practice this week, Rudolph's ability to generate the kind of big plays that have been lacking for long stretches this season made Tomlin inclined to stick with the hot hand. Not bad for someone who hadn't started a game in more than two years.

"Performing (in practice) and performing in stadiums are two different things," Tomlin said. "And so, it was good to see it show up in the stadium, but I don't think any of us were shocked by it. We've all seen it in stadiums with him before."

FAMILIAR FACE

The Steelers could see a familiar face playing a prominent role for Seattle's defense today. Former firstround pick Devin Bush could be in line for his first start since signing with the Seahawks in the offseason. Seattle is uncertain whether starting linebacker Jordyn Brooks will be able to play after he aggravated an ankle injury last week against Tennessee.

Bush played 40 defensive snaps against the Titans. It was the second time in a month he got extensive playing time after after Brooks was initially hurt in Week 13 at Dallas. Bush has not started a game since Week 15 of last season while still with the Steelers.

"You have to balance the emotions of playing your former team, but also locking in and knowing what you have to do and what you have to get done," Seattle linebacker Bobby Wagner said. "I feel like he'll be good."

PATCHWORK UNITS

Steelers have endured plenty of roster churn at inside linebacker this season after opting not to keep Bush. Free agent signees Cole Holcomb and Kwon Alexander are both out for the season with injuries, and Elandon Roberts is also likely done for the year after sustaining a pectoral injury last Enter Mychal Walker, Myles Jack and Blake Martinez. Walker and Martinez joined Pittsburgh's practice squad in October, and the Steelers lured Jack out of retirement a couple of days before Thanksgiving.

There are also issues at safety, with Minkah Fitzpatrick, Keanu Neal and Damontae Kazee unavailable due to injury or suspension. Eight-time Pro Bowler Patrick Peterson moved from cornerback to safety full-time last week, helping the Steelers generate three interceptions against Cincinnati's Jake Browning.

Evgeni Malkin and Sidney Crosby score as the Penguins beat the Blues 4-2

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH Evgeni Malkin had a goal and an assist, helping the Pittsburgh Penguins top the St. Louis Blues 4-2 on Saturday night.

Malkin scored his 14th of the season on the power play. It was his third goal in two games. Malkin also set up Drew O'Connor's fourth of the year.

Jeff Carter scored his fourth goal for Pittsburgh in the third period, and Sidney Crosby's 20th of the season was an emptynetter. Tristan Jarry made 25 stops.

Crosby is one point from tying Joe Thornton for 12th place on the NHL's career points list. He became the 19th player in NHL history to score 400 even-strength goals and 22nd in NHL history with 16 seasons of 20 or more goals.

Penguins The improved to 6-1-1 in their last eight games.

Robert Thomas scored his team-leading 15th of the season for the Blues, while former Penguin Kasperi Kapanen added his fourth.

Joel Hofer stopped 26 shots for the Blues, who have lost two straight following a three-game winning streak. St. Louis is 5-3 under interim coach Drew Bannister.

Carter gave Pittsburgh a 3-1 lead at 4:48 of the third period. Hofer tried to play the puck up the but Jansen boards, Harkins intercepted and sent a pass to Carter, who redirected a one-timer across the line.

Kapanen scored on a deflection at 10:21 to make it a 3-2 game. Kapanen, who was picked 22nd overall by Pittsburgh in the 2014 draft, stopped a 21game drought with his first goal since Nov. 14.

O'Connor opened the scoring for Pittsburgh at 15:32 of the first. He took a pass from Malkin and fired a one-timer past Hofer from between the circles.

Valtteri Puustinen appeared to give Pittsburgh a 2-0 lead at 19:30. But the goal was waived off after Puustinen was whistled for high-sticking Brayden Schenn before his shot.

Thomas tied the game with 25 seconds left on the Puustinen penalty at 1:06 of the second. He onetimed a Jordan Kyrou pass behind Jarry from a sharp angle near the side of the net.

Malkin put Pittsburgh in front 2-1 with a powerplay goal at 6:50 of the second. Jake Guentzel's pass hit off Malkin's right skate while he stood at the side of the crease near the left post.

No. 6 Georgia routs No. 4 Florida State 63-3 in Orange Bowl matchup of teams missing out on CFP

Associated Press

MIAMI GARDENS, Fla. - Kirby Smart didn't need to do much to convince his Georgia Bulldogs of the importance of the Orange

"As long as winning matters, we're gonna compete like hell at Georgia," Smart said.

The Bulldogs entered Saturday night's matchup against Florida State essentially at full strength. The Seminoles, who were missing at least a dozen of their key contributors because of opt outs and players in the transfer portal, did not.

The result was what you might expect: The sixthranked Bulldogs crushed previously undefeated and fourth-ranked Florida State 63-3 in the Orange Bowl in a matchup of teams missing out on the College Football Playoff.

Smart said the result of the game was indicative of a larger problem in the "People need to see what happened tonight, and they need to fix this,' he said. "It needs to be fixed. It's very unfortunate that they (the Seminoles), who have a good football team, are in the position they're in. Everybody can say it's their fault. Everybody can say that we had our guys and they didn't have their guys. I can listen to all that. But college football has got to decide what they want.

"It's really unfortunate for those kids on that side of the sideline that had to play in that game that didn't have their full arsenal. And it affected the game, 100 percent."

Carson Beck passed for 203 yards and two touchdowns and backup QB Gunnar Stockton passed for two more scores for Georgia, which scored touchdowns on nine of 12 drives and gained 673 total yards against the short-handed

Seminoles. The Bulldogs (13-1) were used to competing for championships this time of year, having won the last two national titles. But Georgia lost to Alabama in the Southeastern Conference championship game the Bulldogs' first loss since the 2021 season — and missed out on one of the four spots in the CFP rankings. Instead, they settled for the seventh New Year's Six bowl appearance in program history.

Florida State (13-1) failed to make the CFP cut despite winning the Atlantic Coast Conference title, because of transfers, optouts and injuries, the Seminoles were without players who were responsible for 97% of their passing yards, 88% of their rushing yards and 84% of their receptions this season.

The Bulldogs charged out to a 39-point halftime lead, the largest in the bowl's 90-year history, beating West Virginia's 29-point halftime lead over Clemson in 2012. It was also the largest margin of defeat in Florida State's history.

quarter became 49-23 by halftime behind a 30-point frame for the Cee-Bees. Luzader scored 20 of his 28 total points in the opening half. The 2-3 zone by CB defensively disrupted GW all afternoon and allowed the hosts to keep the speed of the Cavaliers at bay.

"They are an up-tempo team that likes to get after it, but I think we took them out of their game a little today," Kisner said. "We wanted to take care of the basketball today and our young guards did a great job of that and passed the ball well to the inside. If the outside shots aren't falling we know the big guys are there to clean up.

The advantage remained over 20 points after the third quarter, 66-31, as Luzader and Barr each went over 20 points during the frame. Despite shooting effort from 3-point range of 2 for 13, the Cee-Bees made 29 of 44 attempted shots from inside the arc, much of those coming from inside the paint. 24 of those came from either Barr Luzader.

"Preston is only a junior but he doesn't play anything like that," Kisner said. "He is our leader out there and an upperclassman in our eyes. The work he does during the offseason has shown early in the season and he and Colby just complement each other so well."

The Cavaliers managed to outscore the Cee-Bees 19-13 in the final quarter, but it was too little, too late as the hosts captured the 2023 Santa Series championship 79-50.

With all those achievemants, however, it is with Huggins' downfall that we begin our top 10 sports stories of 2023:

1. Huggins' final chapter

The final chapter of Bob Huggins' legendary tenure at WVU was long, confusing and most of all, disappointing to the fan base which adored him so.

It began in May when Huggins used homophobic and anti-Catholic slurs on a Cincinnati radio show. That resulted in a suspension, pay cut and plenty of questions about his future.

Just over a month later, Huggins was arrested for a DUI after being picked up in downtown Pittsburgh.

The university quick to release a resignation letter it attributed to Huggins.

The following month saw another twist in the story as Huggins began to claim that he had never resigned and demanded his reinstatement as head coach.

sides' lawyers Both traded letters and by the end of the summer, the story finally cooled off.

In that time, Josh Eilert had been elevated to interim head coach and given the reigns of a program that was in turmoil.

"I look at it as an opportunity," Eilert said at the time. "I'm excited to show what I can do and what our staff can do and what our players can do in a difficult situation."

2. Riggs goes national

Morgantown High's Irene Riggs accomplished just about everything she could in the Mountain State.

A three-time state crosscountry champion, sixtime individual; track champion, two-time McCoy Award winner, a Hardman Award winner and a sixtime Gatorade State Player of the Year recipient.

It should come as no surprised that when Riggs started to take her show on the road, the success followed.

Riggs won a Nike Regional in North Carolina and then the Nike National Championship in Oregon. She followed that up with a win at the U-20 USATF Champi-Cross-Country onships and eventually a trip to Australia as part of Team USA for the World XC Championships. That all led to her becoming the first-ever West Virginian to be named a Gatorade National Player of the Year, winning in girls' cross-country.

"I'm just really honored to be able to represent the state this way," Riggs said after receiving the Gatorade award. "If you look back, especially in distance running but in all sports in general, we've really grown as a state in athletics and I think sometimes we get a little bit overshadowed. I think it's really important to try our best to represent the state well."

Riggs matriculated to Standford this fall, where she is a member of the Cardinal's cross-country and track and field teams.

3. WVU football won't finish last prediction Preseason polls really have no bearing on how a season will play out. Unless, of course, if your team is picked last and it becomes a rallying point for the entire season.

The WVU football team being picked 14th in the Big 12 preseason poll was maybe the best thing to happen to the Mountaineers and head coach Neal Brown, as the team used that perceived disrespect as its main motivation for the entire season.

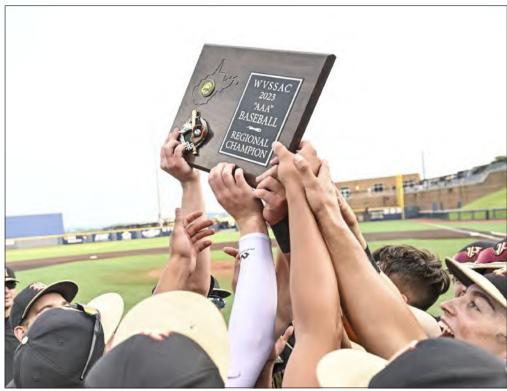

"We're looking forward proving everybody wrong on that front," Brown said at Big 12 media days. "We won't finish (last)."

The number 14 became synonymous with the Mountaineers. Players brought it up frequently in interviews and on social media and it was displayed all around the football facilities. In the end, the Mountaineers proved themselves right and everyone else wrong. WVU had its best season under Brown and finished in a tie for third in the conference standings.

With powerhouses Texas and Oklahoma moving to the Big 12, fans are starting to wonder if this positive momentum could carry the Mountaineers all the way to their first Big 12 title game.

4. WVU makes 1st College Cup

Speaking of a program with positive momentum, no one has been on a clearer upwards direction than the West Virginia men's soccer team.

Under the tutelage of program alum Dan Stratford, the Mountaineers won 17 games, a single season high, finished No. 3 in the rankings, beat No. 1 Marshall in front of a recordsetting home crowd and ran through the national tournament to make the team's first appearance in the College Cup semifinals. "It's a special feeling for everyone and our program," Stratford said. "Being able to host at home throughout the tournament and do it in front of multiple record crowds is special and I'm so proud of everyone involved." Now that we're here I hope we can continue to make a statement and be fearless going into the final four."

5. Battle against the NCAA

All RaeQuan Battle wanted to do this season was play for the WVU men's basketball team.

After transferring for the second time and landing at WVU last spring, Battle needed a waiver from the NCAA to be able to play in the 2023-24 season.

His waiver was denied in October and his appeal met a similar fate the following month.

"reconsideration" phase started in December, all while the Mountaineers were playing games without Battle.

That's when seven state attorney generals, including West Virginia's Patrick Morrisey, brought a lawsuit against the NCAA questioning the organization's right to enforce it's transfer rule.

Wheeling judge granted a temporary restraining order that will allow all student-athletes to play through the 2024 spring season.

The lawsuit has the possibility to make major changes to the world of college athletics with Battle becoming the face of it

"I don't think he wanted to be (the face) by any means," WVU coach Josh Eilert said. "This isn't the route he chose. I was very forthright through the whole process saying this was going to be an openand-shut case. I thought it would be a rubber-stamp issue from the NCAA from the specifics of this particular case. By no means do I think RaeQuan wanted to push this thing this far, but he's fighting for what he believes is right."

6. Mohigans take volleyball throne

Musselman is the cream of the crop when it comes to Class AAA volleyball in West Virginia.

The Lady Applemen won three state titles in a row from 2020-22, defeating Morgantown in 2022 to complete the three-peat.

That was the Mohigans' first state championship appearance. When they made it back to the title game this season, they weren't going home emptyhanded again.

MHS dethroned Musselman in a five-set thriller, winning the first two sets, losing the next two and finally winning set five 15-

"I am so proud of the players and everyone on our team, this is so exciting for the program to be able to win our first championship ever," MHS head coach Erica Manor said. "For us to be able to stamp that into the history books for our program is so special."

The Lady Applemen may still be the team to beat in Class AAA, but the Mohigans are now the defending champs.

7. MHS sweeps basketball titles

March was the Mohigans' month in Charleston.

On March 11, the MHS girls claimed their 10th state title in a 54-50 win over Wheeling Park at the Charleston Convention Center.

"Well if that wasn't exciting, I don't know what is," MHS girls coach Doug Goodwin said. "That was a great ballgame between two teams that know each other so, so well.

Lily Jordan led the Mohigans with 18 points, followed by Sofia Wassick's 14 and Kate Hawkins' 12. A week later, the boys second team won its straight state title, 65-58 over Parkersburg South, on the very same floor. "It's really, really hard to repeat," MHS boys coach

Dave Tallman said. "It's been an incredible ride and we're so humble. We don't take it for granted, we're just so humble and really, really appreciative." Brody Davis led MHS with 18 points while Shar-

Everett scored 14. All three were named to the all-tournament team. As the defending state champs, both ron Young had 17 and Izzy teams entered the 2023-24 season ranked No. 1 in Class AAAA.

8. Wetherholt's got the hits

In a landmark season for WVU baseball, second baseman J.J. Wetherholt blossomed into a national force and a local phenomenon.

Wetherholt won the college batting title, hitting .449 on the season with 16 home runs, 60 RBI and 21 doubles. He was named Big 12 Player of the Year as the Mountaineers won their first ever Big 12 regular season championship. "I've never seen a season like he's had before," coach Randy Mazey said. "Everybody started talking about him and he knew he was in the race for the batting title in the nation. To perform in spite of all of that surrounding him is what separates the great players."

Fans flocked to Mon County Ballpark in droves to watch Wetherholt and the Mountaineers as the team broke several attendance records.

Wetherholt has been ranked as the No. 1 prospect for the 2024 MLB draft and is set up for a big spring in 2024.

"J.J. just needs to continue to be J.J.," Mazey said. "Nobody's ever been perfect at the game of baseball, but he's been as close as you can get."

William Wotring/The Dominion Post

West Virginia football coach Neal Brown hoists the trophy after defeating North Carolina Tar Heels in the Duke's Mayo Bowl. The Mountaineers finished with nine wins despite being picked to finish last in the Big 12.

9. MHS girls' soccer goes back-to-back

The Mogantown girls soccer team was seeing double this season, as the Mohigans doubled up by winning their second straight Class AAA state championship, 1-0 over Parkersburg South in double overtime.

"After the game when we circled up I told them they saved their best game of the season until now, which was the right moment," said first-year coachFrontuto. "They've earned every single thing to get here and if I could I would coach all 16 of these girls again. Hats off to them for such an incredible effort all season."

Vanja Mueller, an exchange student from Germany, scored the golden goal for the Mohigans by putting a rebound just under the crossbar and into the goal.

In the process, senior Gracie Brown also went back-to-back, being named the state player of the year for the second season in a

"We always believed in ourselves from the beginning," said Brown, who scored 26 goals with nine assists in 2023. "I think the team connection and chemistry started coming together early and that became stronger every week."

Brown is the daughter of WVU women's soccer coach Nikki Izzo-Brown plans to follow her sister, Sammie Brown, and play her college soccer at Auburn.

10. Braham leads UHS to state tournament

The University baseball team was going nowhere fast to start its spring schedule. The Hawks were 6-8 in mid-April with a state tournament appearance looking more and more like a longshot.

That was until senior first baseman Noah Braham hit his stride.

Braham, who now plays for WVU football, put together a stellar offensive season, leading the Hawks back to the state tournament for the first time since 2004 and being named state player of the year in the process.

"Noah is a great kid and probably one of the hardest workers I've ever been around," UHS head coach Brad Comport said. "It's been an absolute pleasure coaching him and especially this year, having one of the best high school seasons that I've ever witnessed."

Braham hit .529 with 66 RBI, 13 home runs and 15 doubles on the season.

In the playoffs, the Hawks knocked off state tournament regular Bridgeport in the sectional championship and went on to top rival Morgantown for the regional title.

With Braham leading the way, UHS made it's first state tournament appearance since 2004, when a player named Jeff Gyorko was just a freshamn.

How to keep your New Year's resolutions

If you haven't already seen a bunch of blogs, articles or op-eds telling you how to — insert synonym for "achieve" here — your New Year's resolution(s), then you probably will. And it's easy to get overwhelmed by all the (sometimes conflicting) guidance. So we're going to distill the most important advice for you here.

■ Big dreams are good, but small goals are better. There is nothing wrong with shooting for the stars. For your resolutions, however, it's better to set specific, achievable goals that can help you reach your big dream.

Often, our resolutions are kind of vague: wanting to lose weight, wanting to exercise more, wanting to eat healthier, wanting to read more, wanting to be more creative. But you can't measure progress when your goal is so nebulous. Instead, set specific outcomes and benchmarks you want to hit, like losing X-number of pounds by the end of the year, exercising a set number of minutes per day, reading 20 books in a year, completing a certain amount of a creative project by a specific date, etc.

It's better to set the bar too low and consistently overachieve than to set the bar too high and get discouraged when you can't reach it. If you can consistently reach that goal, start inching the bar upward. Because, more often than not, completing our New Year's resolution is less about hitting one specific objective than it is about developing good habits.

■ It's not all or nothing. Let's face it: We all fall short at some point. Fortunately, life is not like one of those games where if you make one mistake, you have to go all the way back to the beginning. So if you do mess up, you don't have to give up and wait to start again next year. Just pick up where you

Now, you might have to put in a little extra work if, say, your goal was to lose a set number of pounds or read a certain number of books by the end of the year. But if your goal was to create habits, like eating more vegetables or spending X minutes exercising, or writing so many words per day, then forgive yourself for getting sidetracked and get back on course.

■ Make it fun. No one is going to stick to a New Year's resolution that is absolutely miserable, so make reaching your goal an enjoyable process. Put on your favorite music or podcast or invite a friend to do it with you.

Celebrate your wins. When you reach a goal or a benchmark, celebrate it! Take pleasure in every small win. because that's what will keep you motivated. Whenever you get overwhelmed by how much is left to do, look back and see how far you've come.

Think of the New Year as the starting line of a 365-day marathon, but the only person you are competing against is vourself. Remember, every step is progress. Even when you get sidetracked, even when you stop to rest every step is progress.

We believe in you. So get ready, get set ... and — when the clock chimes midnight — go.

NEW YEAR'S PREDICTIONS

Here's what 2024 might look like

2024 LOOMS AS A VERY VOLATILE YEAR. Here is what might happen — or maybe not:

■ FEBRUARY — Speaker Mike Johnson averts fullscale shutdown by accepting another bipartisan funding measure, including aid for Ukraine, Israel, Taiwan and the border. Conservative critics introduce resolution to oust him, but it fails, due to Democratic abstentions. Despite protest from San Francisco 49ers, Taylor Swift is picked to sing national anthem at Super Bowl. Kansas City Chiefs beat Niners on last-minute pass to Travis Kelce; in post-game interview, he proposes to Swift. Trump routs Haley in South Carolina primary; DeSantis, a distant third, drops out. Biden approval hits new low at 31%. ■ MARCH — With Super Tuesday victories in California, Massachusetts, Texas and eight other states, Trump extends lead over Haley. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu ousted, replaced by opposition leader Benny Gantz. Trump clinches GOP nomination with victories in Arizona, Florida, Illinois and Ohio as his trial for his role in the Jan. 6 insurrection begins in Washington. New York jury convicts Trump of paying "hush money" to former porn star before 2016 election.

■ APRIL — Washington jury convicts Trump on three of four counts; Trump claims vindication in acquittal (and appeals the three convictions). His lead over Biden increases to 8 points. Pro-Trump hackers disrupt No Labels virtual convention, giving most votes to Russian President Vladimir Putin. Group awards its nomination to second place finisher Liz Cheney. Across-the-board government spending cuts take effect as Congress fails to resolve its year-long impasse;

CARL P. LEUBSDORF

House Republicans celebrate. ■ MAY — Hunter Biden convicted in California on two counts of income tax evasion. President Biden abruptly abandons his reelection bid. "I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes," he says, citing situations in Ukraine and the Middle East. California Gov. Gavin Newsom promptly announces candidacy. Biden says he won't endorse a successor. That leaves the choice to Democratic delegates, most already selected as Biden supporters. Trump condemns decision as anti-democratic. ■ JUNE — Initial Democratic delegate polls show a wide-open race among Vice President Kamala Harris, Newsom and Michigan Gov. Gretchen Whitmer. Congress deadlocks on spending levels for the year starting Oct. 1. Her fellow Great Lakes states Democratic governors endorse Whitmer to head Democratic ticket. Top House Democrats back Harris, while most Senate Democrats support Minnesota Sen. Amy Klobuchar. Toronto Maple Leafs win Stanley Cup; Milwaukee Bucks capture NBA title.

■ JULY — Polls show Harris, Klobuchar and Whitmer all beating Trump. At Republican National Convention in Milwaukee, Trump spurns runner-up Nikki Haley as an "ultra-moderate RINO (Republican in name only)," picks moderateturned-MAGA enthusiast New York Rep. Elise Stefanik as his running mate. GOP platform backs Trump's priorities: repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act, complete the border wall, round up illegal immigrants, enact more corporate tax cuts, revamp the "deep state civil service" and end the "Biden politicization" of the Justice Department.

 \blacksquare AUGUST — In the first contested presidential nomination since 1952, the Democratic National Convention in Chicago chooses Whitmer on the third ballot. She picks Georgia Sen. Raphael Warnock as her running mate. Biden and Harris back ticket, join traditional platform unity celebration after Whitmer's acceptance speech lists Cabinet choices, including Harris as attorney general. Liz Cheney drops out and endorses Whitmer.

■ SEPTEMBER — First post-convention poll shows Whitmer leading Trump by 3 points with independent candidate Robert Kennedy Jr. at 18%. Trump announces he will participate in debate commission's debates. Kennedy qualifies for the first debate. DeSantis challenges legality of abortion initiative on ballot in Florida. In debate, Kennedy echoes Trump's attacks. Congress fails to approve spending past Sept. 30. President Biden wins Nobel Peace Prize for

"standing up for democracy." ■ OCTOBER — Another month, another government shutdown. Florida Supreme Court rejects DeSantis plea to stop abortion initiative. Kennedy's support drops sharply after debate. Trump says he won't debate any more. Warnock-Stefanik debate draws highest rating of any vice presidential debate in history. Putin says Russian people look forward to "return of President Trump." Yankees win Game 7 of World Series on a Juan Soto home run off the Dodgers' Yoshinobu Yamamoto. House reluctantly extends spending authority to Jan. 31, 2025. ■ NOVEMBER — Whitmer elected first woman president, 333-205, carrying Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin and - thanks to big turnout spurred by abortion initiative Florida. Kennedy votes help Whitmer carry New Hampshire. Trump refuses to concede. Democrats regain House and, with an upset victory in Florida, retain 51-seat Senate majority. House GOP ousts outgoing Speaker Johnson as their leader, names Ohio Rep. Jim Jordan. Sen. Mitch McConnell steps down as Senate Republican leader, succeeded by South Dakota Sen. John Thune.

■ DECEMBER — Democrats elect New York Rep. Hakeem Jeffries as first Black speaker. Putin accuses Ukraine of resisting peace talks. Yankees reach 15-year, $600 million extension with Soto. Trump rejects Electoral College verdict, vows to "fix things" in 2028. DeSantis says he is reconsidering his abortion position. Vivek Ramaswamy becomes first 2028 GOP hopeful to visit Iowa. Swift accepts Kelce's proposal.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

State reps take an oath to serve you

Hold them to it

THE WEST VIRGINIA CONSTI-TUTION (ARTICLE 6-16) REQUIRES MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE TO TAKE THIS OATH BEFORE ENTERING INTO

THEIR DUTIES: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and the Constitution of the State of West Virginia, and faithfully discharge the duties of Senator (or Delegate) according to the best of my ability.'

The oath has a second part: "I will not accept or receive, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing, from any corporation, company, or person for any vote or influence I may give or withhold, as Senator (or Delegate) on any bill, resolution or appropriation, or for any act I may do or perform as Senator (or Delegate).'

These are promises sworn by every representative in the West Virginia Legislature to serve the citizens of West Virginia with integrity and fairness.

The 2024 regular session of the Legislature kicks off Jan. 10. Limited to 60 days, it is a sprint, not a marathon.

The League of Women Voters (LWV) will be advocating for four legislative priorities.

First, we support ways to increase voter turnout and oppose barriers to voting. Election integrity is of the utmost importance, but voter access and election integrity are not at odds. We object to false allegations against the integrity of past elections, as our secretary of state trumpeted recently. It is not in the interests of the American public or West Virginia voters to question the election's results after the people have performed their civic duty and election officials have certified the outcome.

Second, the LWV is committed to safeguarding equal rights. This means advocacy for the rights of women and members of the LGBTQ+ community, as well as reproductive freedom. We oppose legislation that restricts private health care decisions. Health care providers also take oaths: to make the best health care decisions for their patients. Legislators should not interfere in those decisions.

Third, the LWV advocates for the protection of children and families, groups especially at risk in our state. We support legislation that promotes selfsufficiency and provides for effective programs to prevent or reduce poverty. That means adequate funding, not just rhetoric.

The path to self-sufficiency also includes "a thorough and efficient system of free schools" (Article 12-1). Such a system requires a competitive wage for teachers, motivation for teachers to establish a career in West Virginia and certified and accredited teaching and support staff. If we must expend public funds for "school choice" (as the courts have ruled), account-

Top retail trends to keep and ditch in 2024

THE RETAIL INDUSTRY HAS BEEN THROUGH DRAMATIC CHANGES IN RECENT YEARS DRIVEN BY COVID-19 AND RAPIDLY CHANGING CONSUMER TASTES. With the height of the pandemic largely behind us, retail businesses have been focused this year on restoring profit margins and bracing for what is sure to be an unpredictable economy next year.

Big challenges are on the horizon, from high interest rates to a shift in consumer spending toward experiences and geopolitical conflicts snarling supply chains. While retailers have proven nimble in the past, there are two big trends the industry should consider keeping to help weather the storm and two they should ditch.

Trends to keep in the new year:

Generative AI. Shopping may seem more digitally focused than ever, but retailers have yet to incorporate and stretch the full potential of technology, namely generative artificial intelligence to improve everything from their marketing to supply chains. Generative AI is like ChatGPT in that it generates text, images or audio based on data. For instance, that lets consumers ask openended questions such as "what should I have for dinner?" to get product recommendations. It then makes a recommendation and connects consumers to specific products. Wayfair Inc.'s recent investments in generative AI tools such as Decorify, which allows shoppers to see a digital version of a re-designed room, will help the company return to mid- to high-single-digit earnings gains beginning in 2024, according to Bloomberg Intelligence's retail analysts.

Instacart Inc. partnered with

OpenAI this year on a function

■ Physical stores. Despite the growth of e-commerce, people still really like shopping in person out of pure convenience and pent up demand to socialize following the pandemic. That made it a big year for retail real estate. Heading into 2023, grocery stores, discount stores and restaurants rushed to grow their physical footprints. Shopping mall owner Simon Property Group Inc. reported a 95.2% occupancy rate at the end of the third quarter, up 70 basis points from a year earlier. Rents rose 2.9% from a year earlier, Simon Property Chief Executive Officer David Simon told investors in October. With more retailers experimenting with instore exclusives and experiences, retail real estate is likely to continue to be a big part of how people shop.

Trends to ditch in the new

■ Drone delivery. As the character Regina George says in the cult classic movie Mean Girls, "stop trying to make fetch happen." For retailers, that means drone delivery. Walmart Inc. and Amazon.com Inc. have tried to get drone delivery off the ground, but it never quite takes off. It's a neat idea: some flying contraption delivers your order right to your door from out of the sky. But it's one of those innovations that seem more like a tech flex than something that actually solves any problem. Amazon's drones can only safely deliver packages weighing up to five pounds that don't include anything breakable (deliveries are dropped from about 12 feet in the air). They also are limited by harsh weather. Walmart's drones only operate during certain hours and can only delivery packages that weigh less than three pounds. The largest US retailer says its drones lower packages to the ground with a tether. This all seems very inconvenient.

Self-checkout only stores. Kroger Co. and Dollar General Corp. experimented over the last year with stores that only have self-checkout as retailers sought ways to reduce labor costs and speed up transactions. But the promise of self-checkout as a time and cost saver has proved to be a bit overblown. Shopper complaints mounted over errors, waiting times as associates helped other customers or even finding no one was available to address problems. The frustrations with self-checkout even inspired a gag event called "Walmart Self-Checkout Employee Christmas Party" on Facebook that caught the interest of more than 41,000 people. What's more is self-checkout is also contributing to retailer "shrink" from theft. Shoppers sometimes scan a cheaper item for a more expensive one or skip scanning certain items altogether. Self-checkout might seem cheaper than labor, but ultimately retail thrives on a human touch.

New Year's resolution: Appreciating silence in conversation

MY NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION FOR 2024 WAS SHAPED BY A RANDOM MOMENT. I was coming out of the shower, full of thoughts about a novel I'm working on. I suddenly noticed seven small makeup bags, replete with sample giveaways that I've accumulated for way too long, tucked away in a corner.

Then, I thought that I had many small corners in my life needing cleanup. I was looking at only one. "It's time," I told myself. "My novel and its characters will have to await their fate. Mine is happening right here and now."

And just like that, I was on my way to a new year's resolution. In my fictional character's world, "Alfred" would call it "a perfect twofer." I would combine cleaning with a thoughtful resolution that serves a higher purpose.

If my resolution were just about purging makeup, that would seem shallow. Instead, I decided to expand the concept of cleaning the small corners of my life to "creating space," not just physical space.

Who doesn't need more space in their lives? Space to explore, space to be, space to accept. Space means simplicity. Space means honoring the essentials. And then, while cleaning my corner of pouches, I identified the most important space of all to pre-

The space to listen.

This would be a continuance of a long-sought goal of mine to improve communication skills, only taking it one level higher. It's beyond the need to interrupt less or not formulate your response while others are still making their point.

Making the space to listen means suppressing a tendency to fill the space when a conversation goes silent. Since I am a good conversationalist, it's not difficult for me to seamlessly interject something that fits. However, we lose something in the process.

When we let the silence linger, we allow shy people to jump in. We think a little more before stating our views. We demonstrate humility by acknowledging that answers aren't always quick or

At its core, respecting the silent moments is about adjusting our attitude of sharing what we know and learning from others. Bodies of research have shed light on the value of letting the silence linger. There is the so-called "Rule of Awkward Silence" for helping to build emotional intelligence, which goes ...

When faced with a challenging question, instead of answering, you pause and think deeply — for 5, 10, or even 15 seconds or more -about how you want to answer.

The same researcher cites some of our most successful business leaders — think Jeff Bezos and Tim Cook — as practicing some version of the Rule of Awkward Silence.

There is also a practice called "intentional silence," where one holds one's response for four seconds of thoughtful deliberation. Counting to four seems easy enough, but some habits would need changing for the speaker and the listener. I would need to abandon my practice of quick responses, a byproduct of growing up in a large family and wanting to get my words in. Listeners' habits would also need changing in a world where attention spans are short and patience is shorter.

This year's resolution for respecting a lingering silence seems particularly important given the times. It is likely that 2024 will start like 2023 went out — filled with turmoil, angst and heightened sensitivities. Building a tolerance for the silent pause means there is a greater chance we will pick our words and cull our ideas more carefully, and we will give space for others to do the same. Or, as Winston Churchill once said, "We are masters of unsaid words, but slaves of those we let slip out.'

I like my new goal of making space for silence. It started in the simplest of ways —taking a shower and noticing a pile —and will finish with an awareness of sanctifying a particular space. My new commitment to respect the silent pause in conversation is simple only on the surface. It might be my hardest resolution

When I get wobbly, I will think of 19th century poet Thomas Carlyle, who adapted the old Arabic proverb, "Speech is silver. Silence is golden," and shortened it to, "Silence is golden." What was true in the 19th century is true

So, 2024, I am ready! But you might see me before you hear

We deserve a sustainable future for our youth and our economy. Therefore, the LWV supports expanded renewable energy sources in our state, reliable energy grids and infrastructure, clean water and protections for human health from the destructive impacts of harvesting fossil

The ghosts of columns left unwritten Margaret Leech was speaking not only of the atmosphere as the

THE YEAR SLOUCHES TO AN END, NO ONE MOURNING ITS PASSING. NONE AMONG US HESITATING TO TURN THE CALENDAR PAGE. What lies ahead is more misery in the Middle East, a dispiriting presidential campaign between two old men the country would rather not see compete again, and more debate about what constitutes hate in a country that once liked to use the phrase "good neighbor."

We columnists, like our neighbors, look to a new year as a blank slate. Over the past several months, I've been accumulating notes — scratchings on little shards of paper, typed reminders in my computer files — with material that might someday provide the basis of a column. It's illuminating to look back and see what never became an essay. Here are some oddments, revealing in their messages, that I never got to use. You might think of them as scraps of holiday wrapping paper:

■ I thought I might write a column suggesting that our era, with our complaints about national leadership, is not unique, and use as evidence a 1778 letter to Gov. George Clinton of New York in which Alexander Hamilton bemoaned, "America once had a representation that would do honor to any age or nation. The present falling off is very alarming and dangerous."

If Hamilton could complain about the "falling off" of leadership only two years after the Declaration of Independence, then we surely have the right to complain 246 years later. The young people of the Revolutionary age — James Monroe was 18, Nathan Hale and Hamilton were 21, Betsy Ross 24 and Thomas Jefferson 33 at the moment of independence — would be astonished that our presidential candidates are more than three-quarters of a century old, worn out and alienating to all but their most ardent adherents.

■ I found in Alistair Horne's captivating 2005 "La Belle France: A Short History" this reflection from Marie-Amelie, the last queen of France: "I do not know where I am anymore."

This quote from a woman who died in 1866 captured the great transformations underway a century and a half later, when changes in media and manners swept away a world that seemed stable and fixed. This remark became especially poignant when thinking about Joe Biden, who entered the Senate Democrats Sam Nunn, Frank Church, Birch Bayh, Russell Long, Edmund Muskie, Mike Mansfield, Hubert Humphrey and Walter Mondale served alongside Republicans Edward Brooke, Pete Dominici, Jacob Javits, Mark Hatfield. Howard Baker. Bob Dole, Lowell Weicker and Barry Goldwater. They were giants, bigger than our contemporary figures.

During the year, I had a conversation with my friend Stephen Farnsworth, director of the Center for Leadership and Media Studies at the University of Mary Washington, and in the course of discussing Biden, he said, "He's operating in a much different world." There was a column in Marie-Amelie's remark and in Farnsworth's observation. Maybe if he's reelected, I'll write

■ I squirreled away this quote in reaction to the 1973 revelation that Richard Nixon had kept an "enemies list": "Let me make it clear, because I have got to have partisan moment," Weicker, who died this year. "Republicans do not cover up; Republicans do not go ahead and threaten; Republicans do not go ahead and commit illegal acts: and, God knows, Republicans don't view their fellow Americans as enemies to be harassed."

It's a pity I never got to use this one. The reigning Republican calls Biden "Sleepy Joe," labeled his challenger Nikki Haley "Birdbrain," former Secretary of State James Mattis "the world's most overrated general," Barack Obama a "criminal" and former House Speaker Nancy Pelosi "crazy."

■ I still think there's a good column in historian John William Ward's characterization of the seventh president in his classic 1955 "Andrew Jackson: Symbol for an Age": "The age was not his. He was the age's.

Ward, the former president of Amherst College, died 38 years ago, long before the great reevaluation of Jackson, a slaveholder and battler of Indigenous peoples. The description also applies to Donald Trump, who believes he's the avatar of our age but who is instead a skilled reader of the temper of our times. Virtually alone among American figures, Trump understands the great divides in the country even though he resides on the privileged side of those divides.

only of the atmosphere as the Civil War approached but also of our own time when she wrote, in her marvelous 1941 "Reveille in Washington," "The country was sleeping on a volcano that was ready to burst."

No one reads Leech, who died in 1974, anymore, but she won two Pulitzer Prizes — the first woman to win a single one in history and her observations are trenchant and, often, terrifyingly relevant. This year, the term "civil war" became part of contemporary commentary rather than historical reflection — a measure of the parlous nature of our politics and the polarization of our polity.

■ If you're wondering what my approach to columnizing is. you could do little better than to have a look at the Author's Note at the end of David Halberstam's 1972 "The Best and the Brightest," which you might think of as a modern version of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy." At the end of the book, Halberstam, who died in 2007, offered a reflection about the Vietnam era that I thought might be the grain of sand around which the pearl of a column might grow: "So I set out to study the men and their decisions. What was it about the men, their attitudes, the country, its institutions, and above all the era which had allowed this tragedy to take place?'

That question haunts me, and perhaps you, as this year comes to an end. What is it about our leaders, about their and our attitudes, the country, its institutions, and above all the era in which we live that has allowed this American tragedy to take place? That is the question I hope we confront next year – in columns like this one, on the campaign trail, at the debates and in the quiet of the polling

One more thing: I reserve the right to use these themes, and these quotes. Join me in 2024 to see if I do, and if circumstances justify their use. Happy new

Proper New Year's thoughts are in the works, promise

I JUST RETURNED FROM one of the outstanding vacations of my life.

Given how great it all was, I'd love to sit here and share the wonder with you today.

I'd tell you all about each adventure and the lessons I learned along the way Back at the keyboard after a blissful 10 days apart, I would do my best to couch it all into a pithy missive of what it means to be alive and how I plan to take that experience into 2024.

After all, it's New Year's — high time to be introspective; ground zero for putting all those intentions for the future out into the universe.

But as I said, I just returned. As in, very late last night. My head and my heart are still processing and the cold I somehow managed to catch in the tropics is zapping the last of my post-trip energy reserves.

So, while I plan to delve into the Big Picture soon, I pray you'll indulge me another list this week, as I gather thoughts, ideas and Kleenex.

In the meantime, here are some of the intriguing documentaries that dropped while I was in paradise, which I hope to binge as I recover and recoup.

1.) "Great Photo, Lovely Life," Max. The hosts of one of my regular rotation podcasts, "Crime Writers On," gave this offering a unanimously enthusiastic thumbs up, putting it at the top of my catchup-on-TV queue. In it, photojournalist Amanda Mustard examines the sins of her sexual predator grandfather and the pain his behavior has wrought upon his victims and his loved ones. According to the CWO crew, it's an unflinching look at a heartbreaking and all-toocommon family tale.

2.) "The Mission," graphic, available on Hulu. I remember reading about John Chau, the American missionary who was killed by arrows during an attempt to contact an isolated tribe on North Sentinel Island. Nat-Geo's description does a better job summarizing this film than I can, as I haven't seen it yet — and also ensures I will watch it very soon: "Through exclusive interviews and with unprecedented access to Chau's secret plans, personal diaries, and video archives, 'The Mission' examines the mythology of exploration that inspired him, the evangelical community that supported his quest, and reveals his own father's heartbreak as Chau's youthful thirst for adventure became a fatal obsession."

3.) "Bad Surgeon: Love Under the Knife," Netflix. The streamer takes its turn telling the story of Dr. Paolo Macchiarini, a physician who boasted of being able to cure people by performing "stem-cell infused windpipe transplants." Unfortunately, Macchiarini turned out to be a fraud — and a deadly one, at that. This docuseries goes into detail about his claims, his crimes and his affair with the journalist who eventually exposed him.

4.) "The Garden: Commune or Cult," Max. I attempted to download this series to watch on the plane, but sadly didn't manage to get it done before the in-flight internet dropped out over the ocean. The episodes take us inside a controversial off-thegrid community that apparently gained popularity on TikTok — and has since faced accusations of being a cult from some social media users. Funny how that happens.

What we're over from 2023

Time to say goodbye to extreme weather, guilt tipping and, yes, Barbie

NEW YORK — All things Barbie, going pantless, humungo Stanley Cup bottles and pressure tipping. There's plenty from 2023 to leave behind come the new year.

Extreme weather hit historic heights. Fakeness took a huge turn with the rise of AI. The rudeness epidemic continued with the help of FaceTime. Here's a less than all-inclusive list of what we're over as we look ahead to 2024:

Barbiecore, aka all things hot pink and playful and hyper-feminine, has been around since the dawn of Paris Hilton and Britney Spears. Pierpaolo Piccioli at Valentino added some high-fashion oomph in 2022 with a buzzy Barbie pink collection. And there's Nicki Minaj, of course, and her army of fans dubbed the Barbz.

Then along came Barbenheimer and bam! July 2023 was nuts with the conflation of the films "Barbie" and "Oppenheimer." They shared an opening weekend. Big Barbie (and "Oppenheimer") money was made. It was fun. We needed that feel-good frenzy.

Now, please, let's put Babs back in her box and hop on over to some other aesthetic and spot on the color wheel to get all crazy about. Enough with the high profile for our senior gal and her pink. Pink for breast cancer awareness is a whole other story. So is millennial pink, if that ever was an actual thing people generally cared about.

On to Gen Z yellow, people! Hailev Kendall Jenner. Bieber. Ariana Grande. Rihanna. Kim Kardashian. The list goes on of celebs who decided colored but still sheer Tipping fatigue, it seems, is swarming America as more businesses adopt digital payment methods that automatically prompts customers to leave a gratuity.

pantyhose are pants.

They're not pants. They're not tights. They're not leggings. And they're definitely not naked dresses, which make some kind of sense on a red carpet or runway for a sheer, sexy vibe.

There are lots of other ways people go pantless, for sure. Bare legged. Leotarded, like the bedazzled Marc Jacobs number Jenner wore to the Met Gala. All iust look like one forgot one's pants, leaving behind a tuxedo jacket or a long bulky sweater or ill-fitting sweatshirt.

Isn't this what assistants are for? To make sure one remembers one's pants?

"The dog days of summer are not just barking, they are biting.

Climate breakdown has begun." So said U.N. Secretary-General António Guterres of the summer of 2023 and its devastating outbreak of extreme weather.

Wicked ocean storms, wildfires, flooding and droughts. The planet suffered through them all. Earth experienced its hottest Northern Hemisphere summer ever measured. The world's oceans were the hottest on record, according to the World Meteorological Organization and the European climate service Copernicus.

We know this is a big ask, in a climate change sort of way, but extreme weather, be gone!

At the height of the pandemic, and during the early throes of rebuilding our lives, we were happy to tip generously and often. That included onslaught of new tip requests from a brave new world of workers armed with little screens that prompt for tips just before we pay. Because, as you remember, we were contactless.

The problem? It never went away. The pre-pay tip prompts are still there, in our faces.

Tipping fatigue is real.

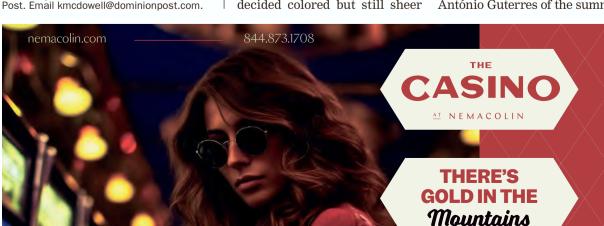

The idea of tipping isn't new, of course. But the disgruntled took to social media in protest of the guilt trip for non-traditional tipping, when we're handed coffee and a muffin, say, or cruising through a drive-through.

The new normal doesn't look or feel anything like the tip jars of yore that were easily ignored.

Let's pay workers more to begin with and stop the pressure tipping.

Pierre learns a lesson and gives us a surprise

PIERRE HAS BEEN IN OUR FAM-ILY FOR 11 YEARS. During that long time he has taught us a number of lessons, improved our lives immensely, upgraded our sense of humor, tried our patience to its very limit and gifted us with incredible trust and love. Every now and then Pierre has handed us surprises, some strange, some delightful. The other day we had a surprise from him we never would have expected!

It was one of those balmy days we've been having this December. Pierre was out in the back yard, doing what he most enjoys, exploring the tangle of trees and bushes that grow along both sides of the fence and explode into a mini-forest at the very back of our lot. Once in a while he will find something interesting (to him) and bring it down to the house. It could be a wet bunch of dead leaves carried in his mouth or a small branch, a rock, even a dead bird or mouse if he happens to find one . More than once I've had to brush his teeth and wash his muzzle after his "treasure" had been prized out of his mouth.

On this particular day Rob happened to be looking out the patio doors when he called me. "Pierre has something in his mouth again," he said. Knowing it could be anything from a mouthful of bird seed to a dead animal, I quickly joined Rob at the patio doors. Pierre was standing at the top of the stone wall that runs the width of our back yard. Even from the distance of the patio doors I could see he obviously had something sizeable in his mouth, as his mouth was only partially closed.

from Pierre when he has decided it belongs to him or it might be fun to play with, is no simple task. We knew from experience if we walked toward him he would only tease us by backing away. Even knowing it was a useless endeavor, we went out and called him, and, as expected, got only a disdainful look for a response. I brought out a tidbit of his boiled chicken, a favorite treat, and pretended to take a bite. This usually brings Pierre on the run, since he thinks someone is enjoying a delicious morsel without sharing it with him. No luck.

Getting something away

Finally Rob went inside to find one of Pierre's squeaky toys. He brought it out and squeezed out a couple of squeaks. Pierre came immediately to attention. His ears came up, his eyes focused on that toy. Rob continued squeaking the toy while he slowly walked toward Pierre, who was still at the top of the wall, a good distance away. Even I could see the consternation in those doggy eyes. Pierre wanted his toy, wanted to play his favorite game of throw-and-fetch, but stubbornly refused to let go of whatever was in his mouth.

Finally, the squeaky toy won the day. Pierre opened his mouth to drop his cargo and grab his toy. To our great surprise a little bird flew out of his mouth and up to one of the trees! Obviously no one was more surprised by this turn of events than Pierre. The little bird, unharmed but no doubt disgusted with it's imprisonment in a mouth full of saliva, found freedom and safety among the branches. I was petting and praising Pierre but Rob had a different take on the situation. "Pierre hates cold food," he said. "He was just warming up that bird before he ate it.'

Hydration is important. Reducing water bottle plastic is a worthy cause. HOWEVER, there's a world of reusable water bottles out there, not just the ginormous and pricey Stanley Cup kind that earned cult status on Tik-Tok and Instagram in 2023.

People wait in lines for these things. Some come as large as 40 ounces in a variety of colors at $40 a pop. Stans (apropos slang) put up unboxing videos. Starbucks, Target and other retailers have been selling out. And there's bling to be had: Name plates and straw tips fill the new TikTok shop, along with suspected fake Stanleys.

Stanley-related hashtags have been shared millions upon millions of times.

Who's behind it all? Social media marketing, of course. Thanks mom influencers. And score one for Stanley parent Pacific Market International. And while we're at it, score one for inventor William Stan-

Would he approve of all the virtue signaling, which is not unlike all the virtue signaling we had already experienced via Hydro Flasks and their VSCO Girls? Before that it was Nalgene.

It's likely Stanley would be ecstatic.

FaceTime is great. Face-Time is fun. FaceTime keeps us connected. The thing is, we like our Face-Times. Not your Face-Times.

FaceTiming in public (along with good ole speaker phone talk) reached cataclysmic proportions on the annoyance scale in 2023. On trains and buses, in streets, stores, doctors' offices. In public restrooms. Nowhere spared. Sometimes, the camera's not remotely pointed at the phone user's

What's the deal? What's the point? Is it a, "I do it because I can" thing? What you do because you fat-finger all your texts or hang up a call with your face when the phone is, um, at your face? Don't know what Bluetooth is? Can't stand things in your ears or on your head?

Don't make us rue 2010, when Apple introduced FaceTime alongside the iPhone 4. Figure something out, unless there's a legit reason you can't use your phone all the other more considerate ways in public.

Do you rub your eyes too much? It might be demodex

Q: I realize everyone rubs their eyes at times, like waking up in the morning, but I think I'm rubbing mine too much. I guess they itch a little, or I would leave them alone. My eyes are kind of gritty and dry at times also. What may be causing this?

A: I almost hate to tell you about the most likely cause, but here we go: Very commonly, during our routine eve health examination we find evidence of demodex in the eyelids. Most people have never heard of demodex, but they are very common, tiny mites. Think of dust mites that like to live deep in the base of our evelashes. Just as dust mites are ubiquitous living in our pillows and mattresses — these little guys are virtually everywhere, too.

These tiny mites live at the base of our eyelash follicles, literally inside our eyelids. We rarely see them on our patients eyelids, even though our biomicroscope gives up to a 40x magnified view of the tissue. What we actually discover is the residue the mites leave on the base of the lashes. This biological residue irritates the delicate skin along the edges of our lids, causing low grade itching. Technically, we generally see vascular inflammation along the lid edges as well, making the eyelid margins look a little pink or red for some patients. And some patients can even see the debris on their eyelashes with the magnification of their makeup mirror.

Good news — finally these are curable. For years we used a natural remedy: Dilute tea tree oil to treat demodex. It works pretty well, but applying it along your eyelid edges is tedious and it burns. A word of caution: Do not use regular tea tree oil in or near your eyes. Full strength, it can damage or "burn" the delicate tissues of your eyelids, and would certainly damage your eye surface.

We now have a new ophthalmic medication called "xdemvy" that is more effective and more comfortable to use. You will need to see your eye doctor for an accurate diagnosis, and for the actual prescription, but this is fairly straightforward and very effective.

Most patients have immediate relief from itching/rubbing, and most tell me their eyes feel better in general. The secondary symptom of dry eyes, or grittiness, is generally relieved as well once the demodex infestation is solved.

Some studies found that most people do have some degree of demodex infestation, and we do see it very commonly in our practice as well. Lastly, I suppose most people have tried some over the counter eyedrops before they come to see us. Usually no harm done, but those drops at the pharmacy are not effective and just waste your money in dealing with demodex. Dry eyes can have many causes and the best treatment can be specifically chosen for you based on your in-office exam and often lab results from tiny samples of your tears.

SPIRITUALITY

A cup of kindness: Auld lang syne this year

My New Year's prayer for You, dear readers, is a prayer for any year but this one. The wars in Ukraine and Gaza are only the lead prayers in our worldwide litany of woe. Let us agree to gather on New Year's Eve with hope in our hearts that the year ahead will be kinder to humans on planet earth than the year that has just come to its exhausted end.

Of course, it was not the year that was not kind to us, it was us who were not kind to us. Which leads me to the musical plea "let's take a cup of kindness now" embedded in everyone's favorite New Year's song, Auld Lang Syne.

The history of Auld Lang Syne is not widely known. Even those who know that the famous Scottish poet Robert Burns wrote the text in 1788 do not know that Burns wrote it based upon an even older Scottish folk song.

According to the Wikipedia summation of all things knowable,"The poem's Scots title may be translated into standard English as "old long since" or, less literally, "long, long ago", "days gone by" "times long past" or "old times." Consequently, "For auld lang syne", as it appears in the first line of the chorus, might be loosely translated as "for the sake of old times."

RABBI MARC GELLMAN

So, the meaning buried in the Scottish Gaelic of Burn's poem/song is that we should not forget old friendships just because they may be strained in the had weather of modern civilization.

I am thinking of the long friendships between Arabs and Jews from the 7th century until the 16th century when Jews were welcomed into the Islamic empire from Arabia to Spain. When Jews were persecuted by Christians in Europe, Jews like Maimonides attained high positions in Muslim society. When Jews were expelled from Christian Spain in 1492 we were warmly welcomed into Muslim Turkey by the Sultan. The works of all the Greek philosophers were translated from Greek into Arabic by the Muslim philosophers called the Mutakallimun. Those centuries preserved the legacy of ancient Greece until the Renaissance took them up in Europe again.

The period of time the Jewish community lived in Muslim Spain was so glorious it was called the Golden Age of Spanish Jewry. Modern geopolitics and the founding of the State of Israel have obviously strained these historic ties of faith and friendship, but now, above all other times, we must remember them especially when we fall into the understandable despair of the present moment.

Personally, I hope we can also take to heart the meaning of this emotional and heartfelt song that fills our homes at the stroke of midnight. If we live long enough, we all will experience old friendships that have worn thin over time. Let us also take a cup of kindness yet and try to remember and revitalize these old friendships. My experience is that most friendships die through simple inadvertence and not through bitter acrimony. For no good reason we just lose track of those we used to love. Perhaps this year we can get back to the task of enfolding old friends in the love of our lives.

This year will be an election year and auld lang syne is particularly relevant for our nation as we enter an election cycle. There were days of old when political rivals and competing political ideologies did not produce caustic vituperation and slanderous invective. We can, as the old saying goes that is not a song, disagree without being disagreeable. The key is a cup of kindness.

So, whether or not the song evokes historical or political or personal memories of the good old days, let us remember them together and let us sing together...

Should old acquaintance be forgot, and never brought to mind? Should old acquaintance be forgot, and auld lang syne? For auld lang syne, my dear, for auld lang syne, we'll take a cup of kindness yet, for auld lang syne.

And surely you'll buy your pint cup!

and surely I'll buy mine! And we'll take a cup o' kindness yet, for auld lang syne.

We two have run about the hills,

and picked the daisies

But we've wandered many a weary foot, since auld lang syne.

We two have paddled in the stream.

from morning sun till dine: But seas between us broad have roared since auld lang syne.

And there's a hand my trusty friend! And give me a hand o'

And we'll take a right good-will draught, for auld lang syne. Happy New Year!

appreciative. HOME DELIVERED MEALS

The Home Delivered Meals program was designed to offer a delicious and nutritious meal to older adults who are homebound due to age, illness, and/or circumstance. Drivers not only deliver the meal, but they make well-checks as they speak to the clients. Deliveries are made on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays. Clients will receive a hot or cold meal on each of these days. They will also receive a cold meal on Tuesdays and Thursdays to be used for the next day.

Who is eligible to receive meals? Monongalia county residents at least 60 years of age or older and meet other requirements. This service can be used on a long-term or a temporary basis. To make sure that seniors don't go hungry, our HDM program is available to the client for a suggested donation.

If you have questions or are interested in the Home Delivered Meals program, call 304-296-9812.

Monetary donations to help support this crucial program are greatly appreciated. Send your tax-deductible donation to Senior Monongalians, P.O. Box 653, Morgantown, WV 26505.

ZOOM TO SENIOR MONONGALIANS

Our agency offers a variety of activities and services that older adults can take advantage of throughout the week. Seniors can come in to socialize and have a delicious hot lunch. Would you like to get out and interact with others your own age or follow your fitness goals?

If you answered yes, but you no longer drive, you may be eligible to take advantage of the Zoom service. This is a free service to adults 60 years or older. For more information, call 304-296-9812.

Think big and optimize your skills to fit the path you plan to explore next. Set a budget and a timeline, and make a list of the people you want to include in your journey. Consider how you can make your home function better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-

Jan. 19) — Set a plan in motion that carries you into the new year with hope and optimism. Gather feedback and get the ball rolling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Overindulgence isn't a good way to welcome the new year. Surround yourself with those who stimulate your mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Steer clear of chaos, anger and places that are magnets for unrest. Protect yourself and your loved ones. ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You owe yourself a break to regenerate before the year ends. Size up your situation and establish a plan.

TAURUS (April 20-

May 20) — Protect your money, health and reputation, but don't forgo having fun with family or friends.

GEMINI (May 21-

June 20) — Don't mix business with pleasure. Someone you think you can trust will let you down. Keep an open mind.

EUGENIA LAST

CANCER (June 21-

July 22) — A change of plans will favor you. Be open to suggestions, and the information you receive will help you.

LEO (July 23-

Aug. 22) — Step into the spotlight and entertain those you want to impress. Don't give in to overindulgence and fine-tune your purpose.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-

Sept. 22) — Dig deep, ask questions and find out where you stand. You may be ready for a change, but it must be on your terms.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-

Oct. 23) — Take advantage of an opportunity to enjoy the festivities. A conversation or chance meeting will reveal something important.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-

Nov. 22) — You can have fun without overspending. Discussions regarding long-term financial plans will be helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-

Dec. 21) — Check your emotions at the door, and don't share your feelings or personal information.

Looking back on real estate market

As 2023 WINDS DOWN, I'D LIKE TO LOOK BACK AT MORE THAN JUST 2023. Let's take a glance back at 2020-23, because it's been such an odd real estate market, both locally and nationally.

In March of 2020, government-mandated COVID restrictions were imposed. However, we were fortunate in West Virginia when it came to real estate. Thanks to the efforts of the CEO of the West Virginia Association of Realtors, Ray Joseph, our governor declared real estate essential. You might normally think that only emergency services would be essential, but the governor agreed that real estate was critical to keeping our economy afloat.

As COVID continued, we encountered home inventory shortages. At first it was due to fear among sellers about having strangers in their homes. At another point, the price of lumber shot up drastically, which negatively affected new construction, but lumber-related repairs requested by buyers also became a challenge.

As low inventory continued, home prices rose considerably. It was simply an issue of supply and demand. There were more buyers than there were available homes, so buying became competitive. I had clients who twice offered $25,000 over asking price but didn't get their offers accepted. Potential sellers were in a position of power, but many didn't want to then become buyers themselves. So, do you see how this led to a bizarre market?

Adding to the strangeness, buyers also had an advantage via historically low interest rates. There came a point where we saw rates at roughly 2.5%. Although I was just a kid in 1981, I remember rates being in the mid-18% range! If you don't believe me, look it up. When you have that perspective, rates around 7% or 8% don't seem quite so bad.

Having said that, rates were closing in on 8% not long ago. At the time of this writing, they've dropped back down into the upper-6% range. Economic experts and political pundits have been predicting this, given we're coming into an election year.

At the end of the day however, neither Realtors, lenders nor even economists have a crystal ball. There are pros and cons pertaining to listing or buying a home at this time. If you purchased a home in the past couple of years, you're not going to get a similar rate now. However, there's always the possibility of rates coming down eventually, which would give you an opportunity to refinance. Keep that in mind!

For those who may not understand, the concept of lowering rates is to give the economy a jump start. On the flip side, raising rates is supposed to slow down inflation, which in the past couple of years has been at a four-decade high. For reasons that are debatable, that approach hasn't worked out this time.

Much is to be determined in 2024 when it comes to our economy and how that will affect the real estate market, both locally and nationally. Stay tuned!

Ask Angi: How do I make my house snowstorm ready?

Snowstorms are more frequent in the north than the south (and indeed, snow is virtually nonexistent in Florida), but many of the same principles of emergency safety apply in case of earthquakes, hurricanes or other natural disasters.

BY PAUL F. P. POGUE

Associated Press

The bright lights and sounds of the holidays are past, and the bitter cold and snow of winter is soon upon us in many parts of the nation. Snowstorms are more frequent in the north than the south (and indeed, snow is virtually nonexistent in Florida), but many of the same principles of emergency safety apply in case of earthquakes, hurricanes or other natural disasters. Snowstorms pose a particular danger to children, older adults and pets, but fortunately, you're likely to have 12 to 24 hours of warning.

Follow these tips to protect yourself, your family, and your home when extreme weather strikes.

Take warnings seriously

Pay attention to warnings from the National Weather Service or vour state or local government. Time is the single most precious resource in any weather situation, and in most cases, you will have several hours or days of warning of incoming poor weather, especially snow. Listen to the advice given and prepare as directed; the best-case scenario is that afterward, you'll breathe a sigh of relief that you didn't need to prepare as much as you did. But in the worst-case scenarios, preparation makes a major difference in outcomes.

Stay on top of regular maintenance

If you haven't done these tasks already, it's a good idea to complete them before they become urgent:

Stock up on supplies

The federal government's disaster preparation guidelines (available at www.ready.gov) recommend keeping enough nonperishable supplies on hand to sustain everyone in the family for at least three days of no power or assistance. Prepare a disaster kit with enough food, medication, water and pet needs. Store it in a safe, easily accessible place, and make sure everyone in the house knows where it is. (In the event of a disaster, you might not be the person on hand taking charge.) Ready.gov has an extensive list of specifics.

If power goes out, keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed as long as you can. A freezer can keep food frozen for up to 48 hours if it stays closed. Food can stay fresh in a closed fridge for 24 hours.

In an emergency where you have an extended power outage, snowdrifts outside your door can be used as a temporary freezer to keep food ready.

Stay in contact

Another basic tip that's good in all disasters: Don't count entirely on your tech. Write down crucial phone numbers on paper, including emergency services, plumber and HVAC. Keep family and friends' phone numbers written down as well; our mobile phones do a great job maintaining all this for us most of the time, but you might not be using your own phone when making these calls.

One more useful hint: If your power goes out, unplug any equipment that will turn on automatically when power comes back. Voltage irregularities and spikes occasionally take place during a major power restoration. Keeping things unplugged from the wall until power's back prevents any damage from such a surge.

Decorative glass pear invokes 'The Twelve Days of Christmas'

SOME PEOPLE MIGHT not consider Christmas over just yet. According to some traditions and a certain famous song, it lasts for 12 days. And, at least in the song, with each day comes extravagant gifts; the first of which is repeated every verse: a partridge in a pear

It's clearly the inspiration for this glass pear figurine with a tiny 18k gold partridge perching in a tree inside, which sold for $2,520, passing its high estimate, at Rago Arts & Auction Center. The figure was made for Steuben Glass Works of Corning, New

While their early iridescent and colored glass is sought by collectors, they were making mostly colorless crystal by the 1930s. Designer Lloyd Atkins joined the staff in 1948. He is known for his figurines, often animals; like this pear and partridge, which was first made in 1968. Steuben, now owned by the Corning Museum of Glass, still makes and sells pieces based on designs by Atkins. as well as some holidaythemed figures, but this is not one of them.

Q: We have certificates of shares of capital stock of Eimoda Oil & Gas Developing Co. issued May 10, 1915. I don't know if there is any worth to the stock, or if there would be any worth to the certificate itself. I don't find Eimoda Oil listed anywhere at all. I just can't find where to start looking.

A: The only reference we have been able to find to Emoida Oil is the Emoida Oil and Gas Development Co. listed in a 1915 report by the Texas Secretary of State. Don't be discouraged, though; old stocks may still have value. Your local library may have copies of print sources or subscriptions to online sources that can help. The Directory of Obsolete Securities or the Capital Changes database (formerly Capital Changes Reporter) may be useful. Poor's & Standard (www.spglobal.com/ratings/en) or Moody's directories (www.moodys.com) have information on mergers. And yes, the certificate itself may have value, too. Collecting stock certificates is called scripophily. Your stock may also interest collectors of general paper ephemera. You can get more information about scripophily from sites like oldstocks.com, scripophily.net, the American Stock & Bond Collectors Association (scripophilyusa.org) or the International Bond & Share Society (scripophily.org). Q: I've been trying for months to find information on a particular bottle with a paper label for Arpad Haraszthy & Co. We don't seem to have any local appraisers (Fort Wayne, Indiana) who can advise. I don't know which online sources or appraisers are trustworthy. I think this bottle is historically unique because Haraszthy was a pioneer in the California winemaking business. Could you advise me where to inquire?

A: Arpad Haraszthy was born in 1840 in Hungary and came to the United States with his family in Today, most people would probably prefer a decorative glass pear with a gold partridge to a real-life partridge in a pear tree.

1842. His father, Agoston, established vineyards in California. Arpad joined his father's business in 1862. He later formed his own winemaking firm, which operated as Arpad Haraszthy & Co. from 1880 to 1894. He is credited with producing the first commercially successful sparkling wine made in California. Nineteenth-century commercial bottles can sell for high prices, and an intact paper label always increases the value. Bottle collecting is a specialized field, and collectors tend to be very knowledgeable. We recommend contacting a bottle collector's club or specialty bottle auction. Look into The Federation of Historical Bottle Collectors (www.fohbc.org) Antique Bottle & Glass Collector magazine (www.americanglassgallery.com/abgc), American Bottle Auctions (www.americanbottle.com), Antique Bottle Collector's Haven (www.antiquebottles.com), or the National Bottle Museum (nationalbottlemuseum.org).

Q: I have three similar lamps. They are figurines minted on bases which were made to match. They are at least 70 years old. Can you tell who might have made them?

A: Unfortunately, we would need to see a mark to identify the maker. It is difficult to tell from a picture, but the figurines on your lamp base look like they are made of painted metal, probably spelter. Spelter is a zinc alloy that has been used in decorative arts since the 1860s. It can resemble bronze, but is softer and scratches more easily. It was often used for smaller, inexpensive replicas of bronze sculptures.

Not many makers are known. Lamps with human figures on the bases were popular as late as the 1950s, which fits with your estimate of "at least 70 years old." Lamp bases with similar human figures have sold for about $100 to $150.

TIP: Clean a clock face as seldom as possible. The brass trim may be coated with colored lacquer, and brass polish will remove the color.

As logistics centers creep closer to residential areas, some neighbors worried about noise and pollution are pushing back

BY BRIAN J. ROGAL

Chicago Tribune (TNS)

Jeremy Baker was alarmed when he heard that an industrial developer wanted to transform an office campus next to his Riverwoods, Illinois, subdivision into a warehouse and logistics center with hundreds of trucks coming and going each day.

"It was going to be a freight complex," said Baker, who lives in the community Thorngate with his family. "Like many other people, I became concerned, and showed up at a homeowners association meeting for the first time in 13 years of living here."

Opposition from Baker and other residents, who packed a local high school gym in May when site designs for the project were shown at a public meeting, ultimately quashed the plan. In September, health care giant Baxter International withdrew its plan to sell the site to Bridge Industrial for redevelopment. Baxter decided instead to keep using the 101-acre office campus between Riverwoods and Deerfield in the northern suburbs of Chicago as its headquar-

With redevelopment no longer moving forward, debate over the future of the site has subsided. But the controversy offers glimpse into the types of battles that could take shape in the future as sites are pitched for redevelopment.

Industrial developers are breaking ground on new logistics facilities throughout the metro area, sometimes taking over whole office parks. And online shoppers demanding ever-faster home deliveries, many new logistics buildings need to be close to dense residential

In the past, developers typically built new distribution buildings in industrial districts where trucks are common, but now many have to contend with neighbors who don't want to deal with noise and pollution.

"I think now the challenge is tougher, because people are paying more attention to who's coming into their neighborhood,' said Cindy McSherry, executive director of NAIOP Chicago, a commercial real estate development association.

Placing logistics buildings close to residential areas is a good strategy, said Trevor Ragsdale, U.S. head of industrial occupier services at JLL, a commercial real estate firm. It cuts delivery costs and makes shippers more competitive, but it can be jarring for neighbors to see relatively quiet office complexes replaced with trucking operations running 24/7.

"I'm not surprised that in such communities there is opposition to this kind of development," Ragsdale said.

Caron Blitz, a public relations consultant and a longtime resident of Thorngate, the same subdivision Baker lives in, raised concerns about the congestion that redevelopment would have brought to an area where many families live.

"There are five schools in either walking or biking distance to Baxter," she said. "Many people in Riverwoods and Deerfield, not just those from Thorngate, realized they didn't want their kids riding their bikes while 600 trucks per day were going by. Plain and simple, a development like that does not belong here, and we were going to do everything in our power to stop it."

Thorngate residents insist they aren't not-inmy-backyard activists who oppose all new development schemes. Blitz said she recognizes more logistics facilities are needed, but prefers that municipal, state and county officials cooperate and come up with a regional vision that helps find more appropriate spots for shippers.

"There is a tendency for these villages and cities to work in silos as if it was just a local zoning issue, and to us that's not acceptable," she said.

Redevelopment is being triggered in part by the rise of hybrid work, which has decreased the demand for office space, especially in aging suburban office campuses. Municipalities will need to find new users who can pay property taxes, and attracting new logistics operations could be a partial solution, Ragsdale said.

Suburban office vacancy hit nearly 30% in the third quarter, up from 22% in 2019, according to a JLL report. And industrial or data center developers continued buying and removing vacant office space from the market, including the 2.3 million square foot Sears' former headquarters in northwest suburban Hoffman Estates. More than 12.8 million square feet of industrial space was completed in the third quarter across the metro area, the most in one quarter since 1999.

But finding office complexes that can be converted into warehouse and distribution buildings is not easy, Ragsdale said. Class A office properties, which are in the best condition and offer the most amenities, are still in high demand, so developers need to find older Class B or C properties separate from homes and schools, with enough land for the buildings, parking and staging areas, along with quick expressway access.

"That's challenging in Lake County," Ragsdale said. "It's a fully developed market."

Nevada-based Dermody Properties bought Allstate's Glenview campus at Sanders Road and the I-294 expressway in 2022 for $232 million and launched its transformation into industrial park with several million square feet. But Douglas Kiersey, Dermody's president and CEO, calls it a "unicorn project,' and agrees it's tough to find large, workable sites in the north suburbs.

"We will be able to count on one hand projects of this scale over the next 10 years," he said.

Allstate's former campus works as an industrial park because its 232 acres are separated from most nearby residences by the expressway and surrounding forest preserves, added. Kiersev And Sanders Road is a five-lane highway, designed to handle what once was up to 13,000 people arriving daily, so it's a locale accustomed to heavy traffic.

The new industrial park may end up having far less traffic than envisioned, he Dermody just signed its first lease, with Upside Foods, a commercial-scale food producer, and instead of warehouse or distribution firms using heavy trucks, other potential tenants now include high-tech manufacturers and companies looking for showroom space.

"We're not trying to force something into a neighborhood that was heavily residential," Kiersey said. "As an industrial developer we have to be thoughtful about picking our spots. We don't want to where we're not wanted."

Dermody was also planning to demolish and replace the former CVS Caremark office building in Glenview with a logistics center, but recently canceled the project, at least temporarily, due to the rise in interest rates and borrowing costs, Kiersey said.

"We got pinched, but we're still interested in the property," he said.

Developers need to develop the right message for any nearby residents and show whether a proposed project will disrupt their lives, Ragsdale said.

That aspect is where Bridge and Deerfield officials fell short, Blitz said. The developer said early this year that it wanted to buy and demolish the Baxter offices, and annex the unincorporated site to Deerfield, but the community did not see detailed plans until they were posted online in April, just several weeks before the initial Deerfield Plan Commission meeting.

Baxter claimed the new world of hybrid work meant it could get by with less space, and no longer needed 645,000-square-feet headquarters, designed by SOM's Bruce Graham and Fazlur Khan, the designers of Chicago's Willis Tower, formerly known as Sears Tower. Bridge wanted to build an 896,000-square-foot industrial building, 228,000-square-foot industrial building, hundreds of loading docks, and smaller recreational building along Saunders Road, funds to hire experts to prowhich separates Baxter from Thorngate, a group of more than 300 homes.

"We were all stunned," Blitz said.

A Bridge spokesperson said the company had no comment, and messages to Deerfield officials were not returned.

In response to the proposed development, residents learned how to be community organizers, said Lisa Rosen, a Thorngate resident. "Everyone wanted to help, but at first no one knew how to channel that energy or what to do," she said. "Our slogan was 'Show up, speak up, sign up." They created a Facebook group called 60015 Unite, which quickly grew to 1,500 people. The organizers hosted get-togethers, recruiting babysitting crews so young parents could attend, got more than 5,000 people to sign a petition and raised enough duce their own traffic and pollution study.

More than 500 people turned out to a raucous Plan Commission meeting in May, many waving signs saying, "No trucks" and "Keep our kids safe and healthy." Commission members posed a lot of questions about possible increases in particulate matter and other pollution to Bridge representatives, who said the site when complete could attract fewer trucks than initially thought.

In June, Bridge Industrial pulled its request for annexation to Deerfield, and over the summer instead sought a zoning change from Lake County officials for the project, now calling for a smaller pair of buildings with fewer loading docks, which could have uses other than warehousing and distribution.

"Maybe (Bridge Industrial) never encountered this kind of opposition and were not prepared," said Barbara Raff, president of Thorngate Owners Association.

In September, Baxter's neighbors claimed victory company when the announced the property was no longer for sale and would continue as its headquarters.

"In all honesty, we were surprised, but happily so," Blitz said. "It's a huge story of David beating Goliath."

David Meek, a Highland Park attorney hired by the Thorngate Owners Association, said the lesson is clear.

"There are sites in Lake County that might be appropriate for this type of business, but this wasn't one of them," he said.

Blitz said she doesn't want this year's organizing work to go to waste. Their next steps are to encourage residents to reach out to elected officials, including at the state level, and encourage them to set some ground rules governing large-scale redevelopment.

Real estate Q&A: I want to rent out inherited property, but sibling wants to sell. Now what?

BY GARY M. SINGER

South Florida Sun Sentinel (TNS)

Q: My sister and I inherited our father's townhouse when he recently passed away. We get along OK, but not great. I think it would be a good idea to rent it out, but she is still not sure and may want to sell it instead. Do you have any advice on how to proceed? — Robert

A: You have several paths ahead of you. The best options involve you working together with your sister.

You can decide to cooperate to sell the property, or she may agree to rent together and work out a game plan. If you are going to sell it, agree on the significant terms in advance. Decide who will take the lead with the real estate agent and deal with prospective buyers. Discuss how you will deal with expenses when selling the property, such as ongoing association dues and necessary repairs. The townhome will likely need to be spiffed up to get the best price, so decide who will work on that, too.

If you decide to keep and rent the property, you should agree to many of the same issues. Talking through the plan is a great start, but it is best to write things down. A lawyer can help you prepare a "joint-ownership agreement" and help you agree on how you will deal with owning a home together.

Besides dealing with the tenant and making repairs, try to work through the money issues like how rent will be collected and shared and how much to hold in reserve for maintenance. You should also discuss what will happen if one of you does not want to be a landlord any-

If more than one person owns real estate, any owner can force its sale even if the other owner wants to keep it. The easiest way to deal with this would be to buy your sister's half from her. If necessary, you should be able to get a mortgage to buy her

If you cannot do this, cooperating with the process is likely in your best interest.

Push comes to shove, she can force the property's sale by filing a "partition" lawsuit, causing legal expenses to eat up some of the proceeds.

Thirty-year mortgage rates remain under 7%

BY JEFF OSTROWSKI

Bankrate.com (TNS)

Mortgage rates slightly this week, but the average 30-year fixed remains under 7%, according to Bankrate's national survey.

The average rate on 30year fixed mortgages ticked up to 6.9% this week, a small increase from 6.88% the previous week, according to Bankrate's weekly national survey of large lenders.

Just three months ago, the average rate on 30-year home loans topped 8%.

The latest drop in mortgage rates comes after the Federal Reserve indicated it'd begin cutting its key rate in 2024. The central bank's long-awaited pivot was spurred by a number of factors, including a slowing job market and signs that the Fed's ongoing war on inflation is working.

Meanwhile, yields on 10year Treasury bonds, an informal benchmark for 30year mortgage rates, have dropped from 5% to less than 4% in recent weeks.

The Fed doesn't directly control mortgage rates, but it plays a pivotal role. The central bank sets policy that affects the cost of home loans. At the conclusion of its most recent meeting on Dec. 13, the Federal Open Markets Committee decided to leave rates unchanged.

"Slower inflation and financial markets anticipating the potential end of the Fed's hiking cycle are both behind the recent decline in rates," says Joel Kan, deputy economist at the Mortgage Bankers Association.

The rate cool-off somewhat eases the housing affordability squeeze. It also bodes well for a housing market that has been sluggish since 2022.

'These lower rates will bring both active buyers and sellers into the market, eager to get out ahead of the traditionally busier spring market," says Lisa Sturtevant, chief economist at Bright MLS, a listing service in the Mid-Atlantic region.

What happened to mortgage rates this week

The 30-year fixed mortgages in this week's survey had an average total of 0.29 discount and origination points. Discount points are a way for you to reduce their mortgage rate, while origination points are fees a lender charges to create, review and process your loan.

Over the past 52 weeks, the benchmark 30-year fixed-rate mortgage averaged 6.99%. A year ago, the 30-year fixed-rate mortgage was 6.74%. Four weeks ago, that rate was 7.41%. The 30year fixed-rate average for this week is 0.63 percentage points higher than the 52week low of 6.27%.

As for other types of loans:

—The 15-year fixed-rate mortgage was 6.18%, down from 6.21% from a week

—The 5/6 adjustablerate mortgage (ARM) was 6.95%, unchanged from a week ago. -The 30-year fixed-rate jumbo mortgage was 6.93%, also unchanged from a week ago.

How mortgage rates affect home affordability

The national median family income for 2023 is $96,300, according to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and median price of an existing home sold in November 2023 was $387,600, according to the National Association of Realtors. Based on a 20% down payment and a mortgage rate of 6.9%, the monthly payment of $2,042 amounts to 25% of the typical family's monthly income.

The steep climb in mortgage rates over the past two years has squeezed affordability and sparked a slowdown in home sales. Firsttime buyers are especially challenged by this market. Home prices haven't fallen significantly, and values are unlikely to decline, given the shortage of homes for sale.

"Higher mortgage rates have a dual impact on the housing market: reducing affordability for buyers and strengthening the rate lockin for sellers," says Odeta Kushi, deputy chief economist at First American. "The combination of reduced affordability and increased strength of the rate lock-in effect is likely to continue to suppress home sales because you can't buy what's not for sale, even if you can afford it."

'Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve' ushers in another new year

By Sarah Passingham

TV Media

Stop rockin' around the Christmas tree, because it's time to head to New York City — via your living room TV — for "Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve With Ryan Seacrest," ringing in the new year Sunday, Dec. 31, when the annual special is broadcast live on ABC from The Big Apple. Seacrest, who will undoubtedly be toasting his upcoming gig as the new host of "Wheel of Fortune" when the ball drops, will be joined by co-hosts from parties across America as everyone welcomes the new year with musical performances to keep audiences dancing all the way into 2024.

Every year, partiers fill Times Square in New York City, braving the brisk weather to watch the ball drop. Top musical artists keep everyone celebrating warm with exciting live performances you can't help but rock out to, from stages in The Big Apple and Los Angeles. The at-home broadcast also features clips from celebrations around the world as countries spanning every time zone count down the last seconds of 2023.

The superstars helping us ring in 2024 are Agua ("Barbie Girl"); Doechii ("Persuasive"); Ellie Goulding ("By the End of the Night"); Janelle Monáe ("Lipstick Lover"); Loud Luxury, Two Friends and Bebe Rexha, who will perform their hit "If Only I"; Ludacris ("Stand Up"); Nile Rodgers and CHIC ("Good Times"); Paul Russell ("Lil Boo Thang"); and Reneé Rapp ("Snow Angel"). Hollywood rockers Thirty Seconds to Mars ("Seasons") will also be putting on a show at the L.A. party. More musical acts performing from Times Square will be announced as we near the final days of the year, according to ABC.

Tuning in to the "New Year's Rockin' Eve" broadcast is an annual tradition for millions of viewers, and a convention that began all the way back to the eve of 1973. That year, feeling that the New Year's Eve broadcast special had grown stale, Dick Clark, known primarily at the time as the long-standing host of the music and dance program "American Bandstand," used his connection to youth culture to craft a new kind of special that would attract a younger audience.

The first iteration of Clark's special brought a new energy to the festive broadcast, eschewing the big band and slow dancers to bring a rock show into viewers' homes. On Dec. 31, 1972, "Three Dog Night's New Year's Rockin' Eve" aired on NBC, with Billy Preston ("That's the Way God Planned it"), Blood, Sweat and Tears ("I Can't Move No Mountains"), Al Green ("I'm Still In Love With You") and Helen Reddy ("I Am Woman") performing for an audience aboard the Queen Mary in Long Beach, California, while Clark reported live from Times Square. The artists performed the traditional "Auld Lang Syne" as the clock struck midnight, then descended into a long jam ses-performances for the show's last broadcast from NBC. "New Year's Rockin' Eve" rung in 1975 on ABC as it has done every year since with Clark as its trusty host. Clark was the face of New Year's Eve programming until 2004 when the host suffered a stroke, leading "Live! With Regis and Kathie Lee" anchor Regis Philbin to step in that year. Clark returned to co-host the show in 2005 alongside "American Idol" host Seacrest, who celebrates his 19th Times Square New Year with this upcoming broadcast.

Clark and Seacrest co-hosted "New Year's Rockin' Eve" for years, ringing in their final new year together in 2012 before Clark's death that August. Clark's legacy lives on in the iconic broadcast he created, not just in its name but in its spirit. In an

Matthews and the Leafs look to knock Kings off their throne

By Roberto Jozef

TV Media

After a bit of eggnog and recharging with loved ones, Auston Matthews and the Toronto Maple Leafs head to Los Angeles as they look to even their regular season series against the Los Angeles Kings, Tuesday, Jan. 2, at the Crypto.com Arena, with the game broadcast live on ESPN+.

Hoping for a better outcome compared to the last time these two teams met, Matthews and the Leafs will be looking to come out swinging after dropping their first meeting against the Los Angeles Kings 4-1 in front of a packed home crowd at Scotiabank Arena. Despite the result, captain John Tavares managed to get on the scoreboard, with Mitch Marner and William Nylander providing the assists. For Matthews, even though he was held off the scoresheet, he's been one of the more consistent players for the Buds and there is no doubt he'll be looking to have more of an impact.

Well over 20 games into the year, Matthews has once again cemented himself as an elite goal scorer in the NHL, kicking off the season with back-to-back hat tricks in the Maple Leafs' first two games of the season — a record only achieved by four other players: Alex Ovechkin (2017-18) and Cy Denneny, Joe Malone and Reg Noble (all 1917-18) in NHL history.

However, the Kings significantly outplayed the Leafs in just about every area of their last matchup. Cam Talbot, who is having a Vezina Trophy type of season, provided stellar goaltending, stopping 29 of 30 shots, with the Kings getting solid contributions all around from Anze Kopitar, Trevor Moore, Pierre-Luc Dubois, Kevin Fiala, Phillip Danault, Arthur Kaliyev, Quinton Byfield and Andres Englund.

Despite John Tavares being the lone forward to score, fans can remain optimistic as Matthews has not been held off the scoresheet in more than four games this season, proving his resilience even when things aren't going his way. Last season, Matthews battled through injuries and, despite all that, racked up 85 points in 75 games.

Pushing for another historic season of excellence, Matthews and the Maple Leafs will look to knock the Kings off of their winning ways, beginning their three-game road trip Tuesday, Jan. 2, at Crypto.com Arena in Los Angeles, with all the action airing live on ESPN+.

The Marsh King's Daughter

Helena Pelletier (Ridley), a seemingly ordinary mother, secretly plots to kill the man responsible for her traumatic family past after he escapes prison intent on retribution. Having kept her scandalous history a secret — being the daughter of the "Marsh King" (Mendelsohn), the man responsible for holding her mother, Beth (Pistorius), captive for two years in the wilderness — Helena must confront her origins by outsmarting the most dangerous man she's known in his natural element.

Director: Neil Burger. Stars: Daisy Ridley, Ben Mendelsohn, Garrett Hedlund, Caren Pistorius, Dan Abramovici, Brooklynn Prince, Gil Birmingham. 2023. 108 mins. Drama.

Under the Boardwalk

Tensions rise when the annual summer gathering of land crabs and sea crabs commences underneath a New Jersey boardwalk. Timid land crab Armen (Cera) is reluctant to socialize with the vacationing sea crabs, but begrudgingly does so at the urging of his party-loving friends, Bobby (Cannavale), Jimmy (Rudnitsky) and Manny (Magaro). Separated from his friends and having accidentally drawn the wrath of arrogant sea crab Mako (Brand), Armen's fears of socializing seem valid, until a timely encounter with tourist Ramona (Palmer). Suddenly caught in a flash wave separating them from crab civilization, the pair must use all their claws and courage to make it home and unite their friends and families.

Director: David Soren. Stars: Keke Palmer, Michael Cera, Bobby Cannavale, John Magaro, Russell Brand, Jon Rudnitsky, Steven Van Zandt, Ron Funches, Shoshannah Stern. 2023. 83 mins. Animation.

Showdown at the Grand

Devoted but unsuccessful at operating his beloved cinema, George Fuller (Howard) faces the challenge of dwindling crowds while predatory mobsters seek to acquire his property through any means necessary. Hoping to draw an audience, George arranges a special screening celebrating the reclusive action film icon Claude Luc Hallyday (Lundgren), who shockingly agrees to attend. Unaware that his theater remains the final piece to real estate mogul Miss Shrader's (Righetti) development plan, the pair's silver screen fantasies come to reality in a violent showdown. Director: Orson Oblowitz. Stars: Dolph Lundgren, Terrence Howard, Amanda Righetti, John Savage, Piper Curda, Mike Ferguson, Jon Sklaroff. 2023. 92 mins. Action.

the best cooking shows of 2023

By Caroline Collacutt TV Media

There's a lot to sink your teeth into when it comes to watching TV. If cooking mayhem and breaking baking boundaries are your thing, these series – currently available to stream might just be for you:

"Chef's Table" (Netflix): Following a different top-tier chef in each episode, this docuseries has traveled from Italy to Thailand to Peru, highlighting culinary innovation, techniques and cooking philosophies. Currently, six seasons of "Chef's Table" are available, with more seasons coming soon. With 30 visually stunning episodes and two additional spinoff series — "Chef's Table: France" and "Chef's Table: BBQ" — there is sure to be an episode to fit everyone's taste, making mouths water and stomachs grumble coast to coast.

"Hell's Kitchen" (Prime Video): Gordon Ramsay is back and hotter than ever. With 21 seasons to binge and Season 22 on the air, this series proves a fanfavorite, following Ramsay as he puts 18 aspiring chefs through the gauntlet of his "fiery" command, each given a spot in his intense, high-octane culinary academy. The chefs are separated into two teams, each led by previous culinary "araduates."

"Secret Chef" (Disney+): This series, created by chef David Chang ("Ugly Delicious"), welcomes chefs — from "professional chefs and home cooks to social media influencers," according to Disney — to take part in an unusual cooking challenge, in which each chef is isolated in a secret subterranean kitchen, each connected by a series of conveyor belts. With no judges (and only an animated talking hat for guidance), the chefs are tasked with performing a series of cooking challenges, before they must then rate each other's dishes through blind taste tests.

Ciao House" (Prime Video): Tuscany, dubbed the epicenter of Italian culture and cuisine, acts as the backdrop for this new series, which premiered in 2023. Judged and hosted by Alex Guarnaschelli ("Alex Vs. America") and Gabriele Bertaccini ("Say I Do"), "Ciao House" asks 10 chefs to live and cook together in a breathtaking Italian villa as they are put through a gauntlet of tests to determine their mastery of the local cuisine. Navigating alliances and rivalries, these chefs must prove they have what it takes to win a life-changing culinary educa-

"Baking Impossible" (Netflix): Showcasing "bakineering" at its finest, this one-season series, hosted by Justin Willman ("Magic for Humans"), welcomes pairs of contestants to try their hand at the world of extreme baking, asking them to complete challenges that combine baking with engineering (see: "bakineering") with someone they've previously never met. Each team — composed of one baker and one engineer – has 18 hours to complete their projects, at which point their creations face stress tests and taste tests by the judges, who then eliminate the weakest pair.

"CMA Country Christmas"

Still in the mood for Christmas cheer? Well, Disney+ has that covered with the 14th annual "CMA Country Christmas" available to stream now. Hosted by country singers Amy Grant ("Find a Way") and Trisha Yearwood ("How Do I Live"), this annual concert special gathers the biggest musical acts in country for a night to celebrate all things Christmas and stunning performances of holiday favorites, such as "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," "Joy to the World" and "You're a Mean One, Mr. Grinch." In addition to the hosts, this one-hour special features performances from Ashley McBryde ("One Night Standards"), Jon Pardi ("Last Night Lonely"), Jordan Davis ("Buy Dirt"), Lady A ("Need You Now"), Lainey Wilson ("Watermelon Moonshine"), Lindsey Stirling ("Shatter Me"), The War and Treaty ("Five More Minutes") and Zach Williams ("There Was Jesus"). As a production by the Country Music Association, "CMA Country Christmas" is directed by Milton Sneed ("CMT Insider"), written by Jon Macks ("Weakest Link") and executively produced by Robert Deaton ("American Saturday Night: Live from the Grand Ole Opry," 2015).

"LEGO Marvel Avengers: Code Red" Want introduce the kids to the fantastical superheroes of Marvel, but they don't have the attention span to sit through a MCU film? Fortunately, LEGO has a series of kidfriendly films that shrinks the large-than-life heroes into bite-sized spectacles. The latest of which is "LEGO Marvel Avengers: Code Red," currently available for streaming on Disney+. After defeating Hydra for the umpteenth time, the Avengers assemble to celebrate. However, the good times are quickly interrupted when superheroes start going missing across the globe, including Black Widow's (Laura Bailey, "The Legend of Vox Machina") father, Red Guardian (Trevor Devall, "Guardians of the Galaxy"). The Avengers' investigation leads them to a menacing foe unlike any they've ever faced: The Collector (Haley Joel Osment, "The Sixth Sense," 1999). Can Marvel's premiere superhero team save their peers from The Collector's grasp? Or will they become the newest additions to The Collector's collection? Laura Bailey is joined on the Avengers by Mick Wingert ("Marvel Studios' What If ...?") as Iron Man, Roger Craig Smith ("Sonic Boom") as Steve Rogers, Travis Willingham ("Critical Role") as Thor, Fred Tatasciore ("Star Trek: Lower Decks") as Hulk, James Mathis III ("Avengers Assemble") as Black Panther, Bumper Robinson ("Justice League: Doom," 2012) as Sam Wilson and Steve

Blum ("Star Wars: Rebels") as Wolverine. Additional voices include Laura Post ("The Promised Neverland"), Liam O'Brien ("Naruto: Shippuden") and Will Friedle ("Boy Meets World"). Furthermore, the movie is directed by Ken Cunningham ("The LEGO Star Wars Holiday Special," 2020) and written by Eugene Son ("Blade Runner: Black Lotus") and Harrison Wilcox ("Spidey and His Amazing Friends").

"Good Trouble" - Season 5, Part 2

Anyone who has ever been a teenager (or looked after one) knows that there are two kinds of trouble: the bad kind and the good kind. Digging deeper into all life has to offer, Season 5 of the Freeform young adult series "Good Trouble" returns Wednesday, Jan. 3, on Hulu with Part 2. A spinoff of the hit family TV show "The Fosters," "Good Trouble" follows the lives of the 20-something residents of Los Angeles' The Coterie, centering on sisters Callie (Maia Mitchell, "The Artful Dodger") and Mariana Adams Foster (Cierra Ramirez, "The Secret Life of the American Teenager"). This season, "the roommates will face their toughest obstacles yet as they're confronted with evolving relationship challenges and new career opportunities. Through highs and lows, romance and heartbreak, The Coterie crew will lean on each other while they navigate the next stage of adulthood" (per Freeform). From series creators Bradley Bredeweg, Joanna Johnson and Peter Paige, all of whom previously produced "The Fosters," this season sees series star and executive producer Ramirez going behind the camera, making her directing debut with Episode 5014. Zuri Adele ("Under the Dome"), Sherry Cola ("Claws"), Bryan Craiq ("General Hospital"), Emma Hunton ("Angel"), Tommy Martinez ("Hunters"), Josh Pence ("The Man in the High Castle") and Booboo Stewart ("Descendants," 2015) also star.

"The ABCs of Death" (2012)

Do you know your ABCs? Then maybe you'll survive: From the nightmarish mind of Ant Timpson ("The Field Guide to Evil," 2018), "The ABCs of Death" (2012) and its sequel, "ABCs of Death 2" (2014), will both be available to stream on Hulu as of Sunday, Dec. 31. The first film in this anthology series features 26 horror-and-deaththemed shorts (one for every letter of the alphabet), with each short made by a different filmmaker, spanning from 15 countries worldwide. The shorts range from "A is for Apocalypse" to "Z is for Zetsumetsu," written and directed by the likes of Nacho Vigalondo ("Stories to Stay Awake"), Adrian Garcia Bogliano ("Night of the Wolf," 2014), Marcel Sarmiento ("Totem," 2017) and others. With an impressive and expansive cast, the features within "The ABCs of Death" star: Eva Llorach ("Magical Girl," 2014), Harold Torres ("Memory," 2022), Matias Oviedo ("Sr. Larrain," 2018), Steve Berens ("V/H/S Viral," 2014), Ingrid Bolso Berdal ("Hercules," 2014), Adriana Paz ("The Empty Hours," 2013), Epy Kusnandar ("V/H/S/2," 2013), Tipper Newton ("The Mindy Project"), Adam Wingard ("You're Next," 2011), Peter Pedrero ("Final Score," 2018), Neil Maskell ("Hijack"), Laurie Rose ("Peaky Blinders"), Kyra Zagorsky ("The 100"), Chems Dahmani ("From Paris with Love," 2010), Rylan Logan ("Call Me Fitz"),

Cierra Ramirez stars in "Good Trouble"

Hiroko Yashiki ("Tokyo Dragon Chef," 2020) and many, many more.

"V/H/S" (2012)

The first in this series of "found footage" horror anthology films – first conceptualized by Brad Miska ("Kids vs. Aliens," 2022) - "V/H/S" (2012) will be available for viewers to stream as of Sunday,

Dec. 31, on Hulu, alongside its sequels: "V/H/S/2" (2013) and "V/H/S: Viral" (2014), both available the same day. With shorts directed by Matt Bettinelli-Olpin ("Scream VI." 2023), David Bruckner ("The Ritual," 2017), Glenn McQuaid ("I Sell the Dead," 2008), Ti West ("Pearl," 2022) and more, this first film follows as a group of misfits break into a desolate, abandoned house, where they find a VHS tape that holds far more footage – and inspires far more fear – than any party bargained for. "V/H/S" stars Calvin Lee Reeder ("The Oregonian," 2011), Lane Hughes ("Pop Skull," 2007), Hannah Fierman ("Dead by Midnight (Y2Kill)," 2022), Mike Donlan ("A Is for Alex." 2014), Joe Swanberg ("You're Next," 2011) and many others.

"Foe" (2023)

Exploring the journey and hardships of marriage and identity, the sci-fi thriller "Foe," based on the novel by bestselling author Iain Reid, makes its streaming debut Friday. Jan. 5, on Prime Video. On a secluded piece of land that's belonged to the same family for generations, Hen (Saoirse Ronan, "Little Women," 2019) and Junior (Paul Mescal, "Normal People") lead a quiet life as humble farmers. When an uninvited stranger named Terrance (Aaron Pierre, "Krypton") shows up at their door with a startling proposal, Hen and Junior find their world thrown into chaos. On this uncertain new journey, the couple have to decide if risking their relationship and personal identities is worth a chance at survival in a new world. Directed by Garth Davis ("Lion," 2016) and co-written by Davis and Reid, "Foe" is executive produced by Davis, Iain Canning "Slow Horses"), Kerry Kohansky-Roberts "Berlin Station") and Emile Sherman ("Heartstopper").

"James May: Our Man in India" -Season 3

Continuing on his adventure of a lifetime—after exploring Japan and Italy in seasons 1 and 2, respectively — James May ("The Grand Tour") takes on his greatest trek yet in "James May: Our Man in India," premiering Friday, Jan. 5, on Prime Video. Traveling 3,000 miles in an epic coast-to-coast adventure across India, May kicks off his journey by the Arabian Sea, exploring everything from the deserts of Rajasthan, the dramatic Himala-yan foothills and the mangrove forests of the Sundarbans, to the global megacities of Mumbai, Delhi and Kolkata, before concluding his trip at the Bay of Bengal. "James' task is to go full immersion: meeting the locals, eating the food and trying his hand at everything from the ancient art of kite flying through to a bit-part acting role in a regional television program. And to help him navigate this endlessly fascinating country, he'll be joined along the way by knowledgeable guides, all strong characters who'll act as his sounding board and who won't be afraid to call out his (many) cultural faux pas" (per Prime Video). Directed by Tom Whitter ("James May's Cars of the People"), Bill Bailey ("Deadliest Mums & Dads") and Frankie Fathers ("Egypt From Above"), the series features writing by Henry Dalton ("James May's Cars of the People") and James May.

"Saltburn" (2023)

Ten Years to Pay

The latest feature written and directed by "Promising Young Woman" (2020) filmmaker Emerald Fennell, the dark and comedic psychological thriller, "Saltburn" (2023), is now available to stream on Prime Video. Starring Barry Keoghan ("The Banshees of Inisherin," 2022) and Jacob Elordi ("Euphoria"), the film follows as a young, scholarship student at Oxford University, Oliver Quick (Keoghan) is invited to spend his summer at the home of the charming and aristocratic Felix Catton (Elordi): Saltburn, a gorgeous and expansive estate. Drawn deeper into the other boy's world, Oliver begins a summer that neither will ever forget. With an impressive cast that also features Rosamund Pike ("Gone Girl," 2014), Carey Mulligan ("Promising Young Woman," 2020), Archie Madekwe ("Midsommar," 2019), Sadie Soverall ("Fate: The Winx Saga"), Millie Kent ("The Shepherd," 2023), Tasha Lim ("The Power"), Aleah Aberdeen ("Grantchester"), Ewan Mitchell ("House of the Dragon"), Reece Shearsmith ("The League of Gentlemen"), Gabriel Bisset-Smith ("I Came By," 2022), Glyn Grimstead ("Spearhead"), Paul Rhys ("Chaplin," 1992), and newcomers Will Gibson, Matthew Carver, Saga Spjuth-Sall and Richie Cotterell, "Saltburn" has also earned Golden Globe nominations for both Keogan and Pike.

"Fool Me Once"

Adapted from Harlan Coben's 2016 novel of the same name, the mystery drama series "Fool Me Once" premieres Monday, Jan. 1, on Netflix. After the brutal murder of her husband, Joe (Richard Armitage, "The Hobbit: An Unexpected Journey, "2012), Maya Stern (Michelle Keegan, "Brassic") is grieving and attempting to come to terms when her new reality. But when Maya installs a nanny cam to keep an eye on her young daughter, she is shocked to see a man who looks to be her husband in her house. As DS Sami Kierce (Adeel Akhtar, "Utopia") leads the homicide investigation into Joe's death while grappling with secrets of his own, Maya's niece and nephew search for answers to their mother's murder, which took place mere months earlier. Taken on a thrilling hunt for the truth, these characters are on a collision course with shocking secrets that will change their lives forever. Directed by David Moore ("Outlander") and Nimer Rashed ("Doctors"), "Fool Me Once" also stars Emmett J. Scanlan ("Kin"), Dino Fetscher ("Foundation"), Marcus Garvey ("Broadchurch"), Hattie Morahan ("Beauty and the Beast," 2017), James Northcote ("The Imitation Game," 2014), Danva Griver ("Malory Towers"), Daniel Burt ("A Very British Scandal"), Adelle Leonce ("A Discovery of Witches") and Natalia Kostrzewa ("Rosie," 2018).

"Society of the Snow" (2023)

Based on a harrowing true story, the Spanish biographical drama film "Society of the Snow" premieres Thursday, Jan. 4, on Netflix. In 1972, a Uruguayan Air Force Flight was chartered to fly a rugby team to Chile but suffered a catastrophic crash on a glacier in the heart of the Andes along the way. Out of the 45 passengers on board, 29 survived the crash. Then, finding themselves lost and unprepared in one of the world's toughest environments, the survivors are forced to resort to extreme measures to stay alive. Directed by J.A. Bayona ("The Impossible," 2012) and written by Bayona, Nicolás Casariego ("Intruders," 2011) and Jaime Margues ("Thieves," 2007), the film stars Enzo Voqrincic ("Yosi, the Regretful Spy"), Matías Recalt ("Apache: The Life of Carlos Tevez"), Agustín Pardella ("Secrets of Summer"), Esteban Bigliardi ("The Delinquents," 2023), Simon Hempe ("Intertwined"), Rafael Federman ("The Sleepwalkers," 2019), Andy Pruss ("Alemania," 2023) and Carlitos Paez ("Stranded," 2007).

"Bitconned" (2023)

New innovations mean new opportunities to make it big — and some will work to make it happen no matter the cost. The new true crime documentary "Bitconned," premiering on Netflix Monday, Jan. 1, dives into the story of Ray Trapani, who became the central character in the first high-profile fraud case of the crypto era. In 2017, the economic frenzy of the Bitcoin boom was a wonderland of opportunity for scammers. So when Ray's friend approached him with the idea of creating a debit card for crypto, Trapani jumped at the chance — even if he had no idea how to actually do that. But with perseverance, fake LinkedIn profiles, paid celebrity endorsements and the online community's insatiable desire to "get rich quick," his company, Centra Tech, saw a meteoric rise that soon had them pulling in millions of dollars a day — even though none of it was real. Now, Trapani himself guides viewers through his dramatic journey, while interviews with his family, former friends and the journalist who exposed Centra Tech paint a vivid portrait of the events. Directed by Bryan Storkel ("The Pez Outlaw," 2022), "Bitconned" features writing by Jonathan Ignatius Green ("Social Animals," 2018).

Martin Short, Steve Martin and Selena Gomez in "Only Murders in the Building"

sMothered

тк 6 р.т.

The bond between mothers and daughters is something special, but sometimes, it can go too far for others. This docu-series, now in its fourth season, delves into the everyday lives of some extremely over-dependent mother-and-daughter pairings.

Name That Tune

(46) (53) 8 p.m.

Four more celebrities step up for a chance to win $100,000 for the charity of their choice. Do they have the musical chops to best their peers in naming music from a couple notes?

Extended Family

9 11 12 8:30 p.m.

During a new episode from Season 1, Trey (Donald Faison) gets a reservation at the best sushi restaurant in Boston for Grace's (Sofia Capanna) birthday, upending the annual family tradition of dinner at a red sauce joint and hurting some feelings.

Raid the Cage

2 6 7 9 p.m.

Teams run off to grab-and-go with prizes from the Cage before their time runs out and the doors close. Correctly answering questions adds seconds to the clock, giving teammates more time to grab prizes from inside.

Only Murders in the Building

4 9 p.m.

A few months removed from its Season 3 finale, this hit Hulu comedy makes its television debut. The series follows three strangers (Selena Gomez, Steve Martin and Martin Short) as they bond over solving mysteries in their apartment complex.

The Floor

46 53 9 p.m.

Rob Lowe hosts this brand-new game show, in which 81 contestants stand on 81 squares on a massive, LED-lit game show floor, competing for a whopping grand prize ($250,000) in a larger-than-life trivia showdown. The inaugural episode airs tonight.

Wednesday Best Bets

Ken Jeong hosts "I Can See Your Voice"

I Can See Your Voice

46 53 8 p.m.

Can you tell who is a good or bad singer just by their looks? With the help of celebrity sleuths, contestants will need to do just that for the chance to win up to $100,000 during the Season 3 premiere of this unique game show. Ken Jeong hosts.

NBA Basketball

4 8:30 p.m.

With a new year, playoff season approaches, marking over 40 years since these two teams had their first playoff meeting, in 1981. The Chicago Bulls face off against the New York Knicks at Madison Square Garden in New York City, with footage airing live.

Let's Make a Deal Primetime

2 6 7 9 p.m.

In this special primetime edition of the classic game show, host Wayne Brady welcomes contestants from the studio audience to make deals to win prizes. Will these lucky contestants make the correct deals to increase their winnings or lose out?

We Are Family

46 53 9 p.m.

Anthony Anderson and his mother, Doris Bowman, host this brand-new music-based game show. The series sees an audience of 100 contestants try to determine which celebrity is the singer related to after they share a duet with their hidden famous relative.

Interrogation Cam

A&E 10 p.m.

Taking place inside the interrogation rooms of law enforcement agencies, each new episode of this documentary series features real crime stories and spotlights the techniques used by investigators to uncover revelations in the pursuit of justice.

David Muir from "20/20"

Dr. Death

9 11 12 8 p.m.

Based on the highly popular Wondery podcast of the same name, an episode of the terrifying anthology drama makes its network debut. Created by Patrick Macmanus, this true crime series dramatizes the cases of medical professionals involved in malpractice.

Gold Rush

DISC 8 p.m.

Things are heating up in the cold Alaskan tundra as Tony thinks he's found something golden near Paradise Hill. Meanwhile, Dominion Creek has Parker rethinking his plan of action when equipment struggles cause delays and the weather turns cold.

The Prison Confessions of Gypsy Rose Blanchard

LIFE 8 p.m.

The first two episodes of this limited series air, with the first joining Gypsy Rose Blachard on the eve of her parole hearing. The 31-year-old talks about her earliest childhood memories of unfounded medical conditions and allegations of rampant abuse.

Moonstruck

TCM 8 p.m.

Cher and Nicolas Cage star in this 1987 comedy, in which a bookkeeper from Brooklyn, Loretta Castorini (Cher), finds herself stuck in a difficult situation when she falls for Ronny (Cage), the hot-tempered brother of the man she intends to marry.

4 9 p.m.

Renowned journalist David Muir hosts a new episode of ABC's award-winning newsmagazine. Along with expert correspondents, Muir takes an in-depth look at stories involving true crime, celebrity scandals and anything else needing investigative analysis.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison

TV Media

Q: I just watched the movie "It Lives Inside." I heard it was made by Jordan Peele, but I didn't see his name anywhere in the credits.

A: Bishal Dutta, writer and director of 2023 horror film "It Lives Inside," would argue that there are ways of "making" a movie that don't include having a hand in the production.

"None of us that are getting to make interesting cultural horror films right now none of us get to do it without Jordan Peele and his incredible work on 'Get Out,'" Dutta told ScreenGeek.net in August. "Get Out," Peele's 2017 horror movie,

"Get Out," Peele's 2017 horror movie, has been credited with revitalizing the horror genre, while also giving it a social conscience. However, many have since said that Peele's movies — which also include similar followups "Us" (2019) and "Nope" (2022) — are just building on a longer tradition within horror of being concerned with things like marginalization and oppression.

Either way, Dutta says his movie, a demonic horror story from an Indian American point of view, wouldn't have been possible without Peele's success.

That's also true in more practical ways.
"It Lives Inside" was produced by Raymond Mansfield and Sean McKittrick, who also produced "Get Out," which was by far their biggest hit.

That's why the film poster said, "From the producers of 'Get Out,'" which may have caused your confusion.

But Peele's legacy factors in here, as well. Without the runaway financial success of "Get Out" (it earned $256 million worldwide on a budget of just $4.5 million), Mansfield and McKittrick may not have had the resources, or the boldness, to take a chance on an unknown like Dutta.

Q: Why did Tom Bergeron leave "Dancing With the Stars"? And what's he doing now?

A: Host Tom Bergeron was clearly a little embittered by his exit from "Dancing With the Stars," but it hasn't dimmed his enthusiasm for showbiz. Lately it seems he's been hustling as hard as ever, but for smaller-scale projects that are meaningful to him.

That includes showing up on the podcasts of old friends like former "DWTS" pro Cheryl Burke. On an episode of her podcast, "Sex, Lies and Spray Tans," Bergeron opened up about his exit from the reality dance competition, saying it was due to them casting former White House press secretary Sean Spicer as a contestant.

He said he pleaded with the producers to keep politics out of the show. He felt that "DWTS's" value — especially on the cusp of an election year (Spicer appeared on the show in the fall of 2019) — was being "the show that gives people a break from all this bull — ..." [Expletive deleted here because podcasts generally don't have censors.]

But they went ahead with the casting anyway, and when Bergeron asked to just take that season off, they offered instead to let him out of his contract entirely. So Bergeron said he had to quit. "At that moment, I knew this is probably my last season, because of that one betrayal."

Since then, he hasn't taken on another real full-time gig, instead bouncing between smaller, fun projects. Projects like "Hollywood Radio Players," an online-only series Bergeron hosts, where actors perform' 40s-style radio plays, but on camera. It's a limited, low-budget project that raises money for the Motion Picture and Television Fund.

And he'll be appearing in what promises to be a pretty heartwarming documentary called "Finding Happy," about a woman healing herself while doing the same for a rescued sparrow. It's reported to be filming now, with no release date planned yet.
